Missile Destroyed 100 Seconds Prior To Explosion Time

HONOLULU (AP)—A malfunction in the tracking system of a Thor missile caused failure early today of a U.S. attempt to detonate a high-altitude nuclear device above Johnston Island.

The missile was destroyed in flight only 100 seconds before its nuclear warhead was to be exploded. The warhead fell harmlessly into the Pacific and sank.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department said there was no danger to personnel on Johnston Island or elsewhere in the mid-Pacific test zone.

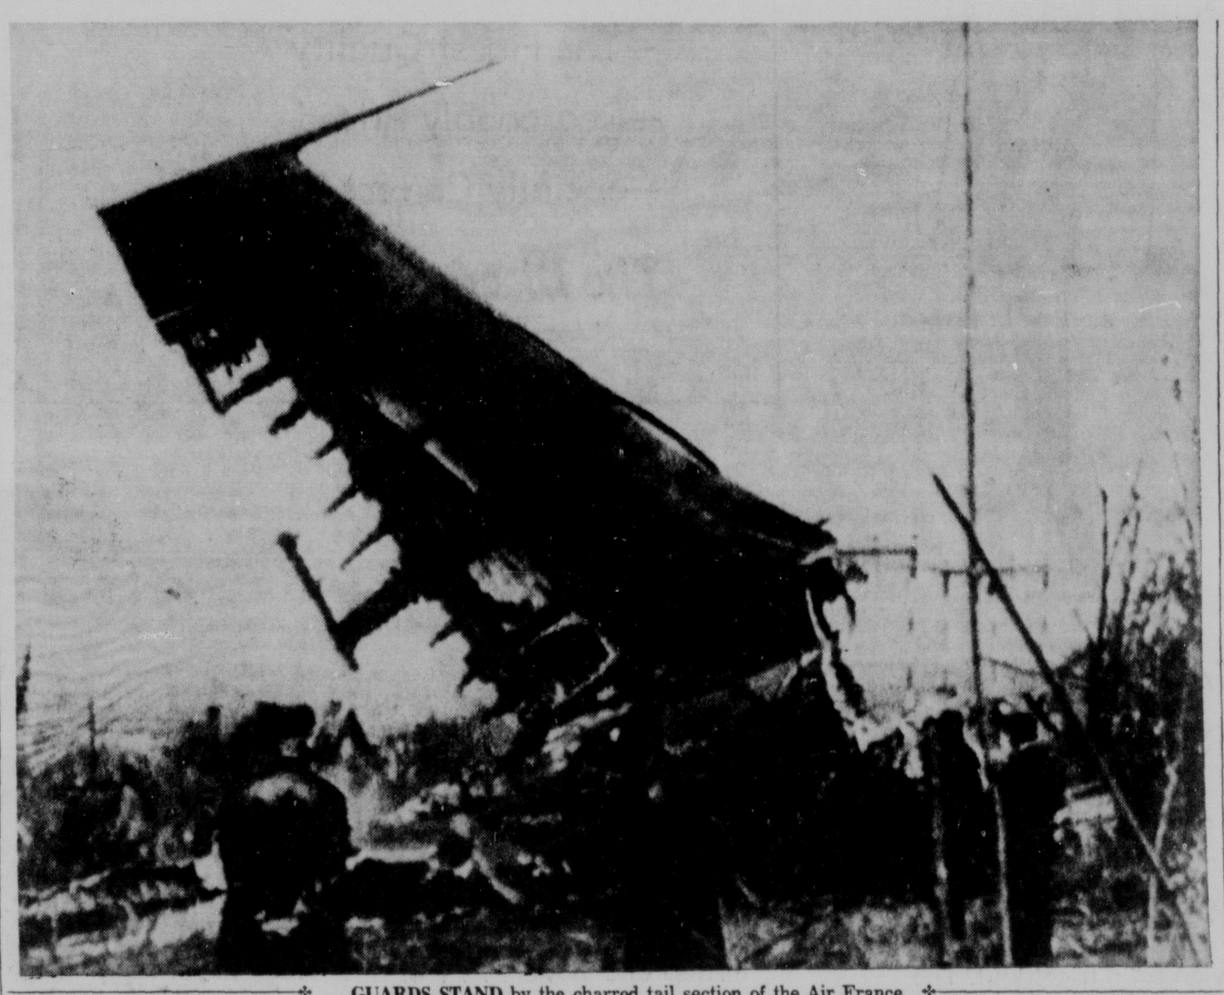

The Thor was launched 15 minutes before the scheduled detonation. As it neared the firing altitude—believed to be 30 to 40 miles—a safety officer of Joint Task Force 8 ordered the rocket destroyed. The announcement said only that the tracking system malfunctioned.

Radios monitoring the countdown picked up the Thor launch at 4:45 a.m., EST. Then, with one minute and 40 seconds left, a voice was heard shouting "negative, negative, negative." There was no further word.

There had been two hours of delays before launching of the planned sub-megaton blast. A megaton is equal to one million tons of TNT.

The failure followed two 24-hour postponements of the explosion—the first of three or four blasts in the current Pacific series. The postponements were not officially

130 Die In Worst One-Plane Disaster In Aviation History

PARIS (AP) — The grieving mayor of Atlanta arrived in Paris today to help identify bodies of cultural leaders of his city, victims of the worst single-plane disaster in aviation history.

Mayor Ivan Allen had set out on his sad journey soon after an Air France jetliner crashed back to earth as it took off Sunday and burst into flame. A total of 130 persons were killed—all 121 passengers, 8 crewmen and Air France's Atlanta agent.

Investigators studied reports indicating the plane developed some trouble as it roared down the Orly Field runway for its takeoff and the pilot tried unsuccessfully to brake to a halt.

All the passengers were Americans and most were from Atlanta and environs—members of the Atlanta Art Association en route home with happy memories and mementoes of a three-week tour of European art galleries and cultural sites.

Only two Air France hostesses—seated in the tail end of the big Boeing 707—were flung to safety in the flaming crash at Orly Field outside Paris. A steward was pulled alive from the flaming wreckage but died in a hospital.

Mayor Allen hurried to inspect the scene of the accident immediately after his arrival in another Boeing 707. He said that along with identification of the bodies he would also arrange for their transport home.

The mayor was accompanied by Edwin Stern, assistant city attorney of Atlanta. They were met by officials of Air France, Orly Airport, the Paris city council, the foreign ministry and the ministry of public works.

Pretty Francoise Authie, one of the hostesses, said: "It was so fast. So sudden. I didn't have time to realize what was going on."

Witnesses said Capt. Roland Hoche, one of Air France's most experienced pilots, apparently tried frantically to halt the airliner after engine trouble devel-

Trio Injured In Car Crash At Glenmoor

Lisbon Area Couple And Wellsville Man Hurt In Accident

A Lisbon area couple and a Wellsville man were injured in a two-car traffic crash in Glenmoor Sunday night — one of five weekend accidents investigated by the Lisbon State Highway Patrol.

The mishap at 10:20 at the intersection of Route 267 and the Y. & O. Rd. involved cars operated by James Raneri, 50, of Lisbon R. D. 2 and Richard T. Vankirk, 22, of 808 Washington St., Wellsville.

Raneri, westbound on the Y. & O. Rd., failed to yield the right-of-way, the patrol said. Vankirk was driving north on Route 267.

Raneri is in "fair" condition today in City Hospital with a laceration of the nose and multiple abrasions of the face and arms. The patrol reported he also suffered a possible skull fracture.

His wife, Mrs. Louise Raneri, 42, was treated at the hospital for a possible fractured arm and contusions of the shoulder and forehead. She was a passenger in her husband's car.

Vankirk was treated for contusions of the left shoulder, a possible fractured left collarbone and contusions of the lower back.

The patrol said the accident still is under investigation.

No injuries were reported in several other nearby crashes, although two Garfield Heights residents were hurt, not seriously, in a crash Saturday at 5 p. m. near Salem.

Giacamo Sanfelice, 22, of Beaver Falls was cited for driving left of center after his southbound car left a curve and struck a tree Sunday at 2:05 a. m. on a township road near Mark's Landing at Guilford Lake.

Lloyd Cunningham, 22, of Lisbon St., Glenmoor, was cited on a charge of improper backing after a two-car accident Saturday at 4:10 p. m. on Route 267, four-tenths of a mile north of East Liverpool.

The patrol said Cunningham backed out of a private drive into the side of a northbound car driven by William N. Wilson, 47,

Britain Wins Support For Market Move

French Ease Stand Against Entry After Macmillan Meeting

PARIS (AP)—A two-day meeting between President Charles de Gaulle and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan reportedly has wiped away many French objections to Britain's entry into the flourishing European Common Market.

A joint communique issued after the talks ended Sunday said the community of interests linking the two nations must influence negotiations between Britain and the six continental states on British membership in the economic community.

French officials indicated the talks, which placed new emphasis on British-French comradeship, had cleared away many of France's doubts about bringing Britain into the Common Market.

British sources confirmed this as Macmillan returned to London. They expressed satisfaction at the reaffirmation of the long-standing community of interest between the two nations.

France has put up most of the hurdles in negotiations for Britain's market membership. De Gaulle has insisted Britain would have to accept the obligations as well as the privileges of the Treaty of Rome which set up the Common Market.

France and her partners in the economic community — Belgium, West Germany, Italy, Luxembourg and the Netherlands—are

Family Traps Pet Hamster Free 42 Days

A pet hamster which escaped from its cage April 22 and remained "at large" in their home for 42 days finally was trapped Sunday night by a Fisher Park family.

The tiny, furry animal, a pet of the three youngsters of Mr. and Mrs. Lorin Howard of S. Surry Rd., had successfully eluded a number of make - shift traps to remain in freedom in a secret hiding place.

"Hampy," the children's name for the pet, survived the ordeal in fine condition and had grown several inches. It was trapped in a piece of carpet by Mrs. Howard after her husband had prodded it from beneath the gas range in the kitchen.

Nixon Tests Vote Appeal In California's Primary

By The Associated Press

California and Massachusetts move into the center of the political stage this week. In California former Vice President Richard M. Nixon goes before the voters again, less than 19 months after losing his bid to become president. The first round of the Kennedy-McCormack battle will be waged at the Massachusetts Democratic convention.

Also on tap are nominating primaries in Iowa, Montana, South Dakota, Idaho and Mississippi, and the Republican state and congressional district conventions in Connecticut.

The busy week follows closely on Saturday's runoff primary in Texas in which Democrats chose former Secretary of the Navy John Connally as their gubernatorial nominee.

Most of the attention will be focused on the California primary Tuesday and the Massachusetts state convention which begins Thursday.

Nixon retired to a Los Angeles law practice after narrowly missing the nation's top political prize in 1960. Last September he announced he would seek the Republican nomination for governor of his home state, and that he would not be a candidate for president in 1964.

The former vice president, trying to smooth over a widening breach between conservative and liberal Republicans in California, has concentrated his campaign

Bid Spurned By Moslems In Algeria

Truce Maintained Despite Rejection Of Offer By SAO

ALGIERS (AP)—A bid for compromise by Secret Army Organization leaders has been rejected by Moslem nationalists in Algiers, but the city remained quiet as the Europeans held to the truce they invoked four days ago.

Capt. Taieb Boualem turned down the compromise offer in the name of the national liberation army's autonomous Algiers zone command. It could not be determined whether his statement represented the view of the entire National Liberation Front.

The Algiers zone command reportedly has opposed any contacts with the secret army, but other rebel elements were said to favor talks.

Boualem coupled his rejection with a warning that the zone command, which controls a half million Algiers Moslems, would call out its commandos again if the secret army resumes its terror rampage.

"There is no question of negotiating with the killers," Boualem told newsmen. "Peace and cooperation have been and will be discussed with France. The killers will be punished.

The Algiers zone command, led by Maj. Si Azzedine, has the best organization in the nationalist setup.

Secret army leaders made their proposal Thursday to halt terror attacks and stop the flight of Europeans who fear for the future when the Moslem majority votes for independence July 1. In return the secret army asked for guarantees the Europeans would be safe under Moslem rule.

The tacit truce appeared to be having its effect throughout Algeria. Authorities reported only two persons killed and three wounded in the entire area as of last midnight. The dead were both Moslems. The wounded included two Moslems and one European.

"If there are only 15 minutes left, or years to spare, use your knowledge to lift, to help, to create," the 256 East Liverpool High School seniors were advised Sunday night by the Rev. Albert J. Rodenhausen at the annual baccalaureate service at Memorial Auditorium.

"Your choices, whether in a factory or behind a desk are tremendously important and they will leave the world better or worse. Make yours count," the First Baptist Church minister declared in his sermon on "Fifteen Minutes to Go".

"WE HAVE been told that we will have a 15-minute warning if Russians launch their missiles to destroy our cities. What we do in that 15 minutes will not just happen. It will be the sum of all that we are; what we have learned; what our parents and grandparents have contributed to us, and what we have absorbed from our churches, our schools and our government."

Rev. Rodenhausen, whose son is a member of the graduating class, declared, "Some of you have acquired more knowledge than those of us who are your parents. Knowledge is good; acquire all you can. But I believe history teaches us there is a right and wrong way to use knowledge. For the Christian and for the man of God, he is compelled to make the world better and to lift people.

Loyal Forces Crush Revolt In Venezuela

Government Claims Leftist Bid Ended In Puerto Cabello

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Loyal forces were reported in control of Puerto Cabello today after a weekend of bloody fighting to crush a Communist-backed revolt against President Romulo Betancourt's government.

Betancourt said more than 100 persons and possibly 200 had been killed in putting down a rebellious marine garrison in the port city 65 miles west of Caracas.

Unofficial reports of casualties ran as high as 400 dead and 1,200 wounded, with losses heavy on both sides.

The government announcement that the rebellion had ended came with the surrender of top rebel navy officers, but fighting still raged in the old city.

Communists, other left-wing extremists and marine diehards held out with automatic weapons in 18th century buildings put up originally to withstand pirate attacks.

The government clamped a dusk-to-dawn curfew on the Caribbean port. Betancourt said 3,000 loyal soldiers, sailors and airmen dominated the situation in the city of 23,000.

The situation was still tense in the country. Sabotage and terrorism were reported in Caracas and several other Venezuelan cities.

Newspapers said a railroad bridge was blown up on the line to the industrial city of Valencia. An oil refinery was reported sabotaged in Punto Fijo.

Three small bombs exploded in Caracas—one at the La Rinconada horse track during the races.

The Ministry of Edcuation closed secondary schools in the capital and Valencia University was shut down.

The uprising of the 400-man marine garrison at Puerto Cabello was the second military revolt against the government in a month. A leftist-inspired mutiny at the marine base in Carupano last month was quickly squelched.

The Puerto Cabello rebels put up a stiff fight in the bloodiest test yet of Betancourt's three-year-old regime.

Texas Waits Connally-Cox Ballot Battle

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Former Secretary of the Navy John Connally, a middle-road Democrat, demonstrated he could beat a liberal for nomination for governor of Texas. Now he'll battle a Republican conservative for the office.

Nearly complete returns from Saturday's runoff primary gave Connally, 45, his party's nomination by 26,074 votes over Don Yarborough, 37, an ardent backer of President Kennedy's New Frontier. Connally had 564,652 votes; Yarborough 538,578.

The victory pits Connally, a lawyer-businessman who resigned his Navy post to make the race, against Republican Jack Cox, 40, an oil company executive and ultra conservative, in the Nov. 6 general election.

Connally, although a friend of Kennedy and confidant of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, opposed Kennedy proposals for medical care of the aged and federal aid to schools.

It is the first bid for elective office by Connally, a veteran manager of Johnson's campaigns.

There were mixed views on how the Cox-Connally battle might go in nominally Democratic Texas, where there is a historic rift between Democratic liberal and conservative factions.

Some conservatives campaigned for Yarborough, a Houston law-

Texas Waits Connally-Cox Ballot Battle

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Former Secretary of the Navy John Connally, a middle-road Democrat, demonstrated he could beat a liberal for nomination for governor of Texas. Now he'll battle a Republican conservative for the office.

Nearly complete returns from Saturday's runoff primary gave Connally, 45, his party's nomination by 26,074 votes over Don Yarborough, 37, an ardent backer of President Kennedy's New Frontier. Connally had 564,652 votes; Yarborough 538,578.

The victory pits Connally, a lawyer-businessman who resigned his Navy post to make the race, against Republican Jack Cox, 40, an oil company executive and ultra conservative, in the Nov. 6 general election.

Connally, although a friend of Kennedy and confidant of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, opposed Kennedy proposals for medical care of the aged and federal aid to schools.

It is the first bid for elective office by Connally, a veteran manager of Johnson's campaigns.

There were mixed views on how the Cox-Connally battle might go in nominally Democratic Texas, where there is a historic rift between Democratic liberal and conservative factions.

Some conservatives campaigned for Yarborough, a Houston law-

Board Seeks Bids For Sale Of City Land

The Board of Public Utilities said today it will open bids at noon July 13 for the sale of a one-acre tract of "bottom land" just west of the city's filtration plant on Michigan Ave.

The five-sided lot starts at a point about 205 feet south of Michigan Ave. and runs to the Ohio River bank, the board said.

Donald T. Duke, water department superintendent, said the Ohio Power Co. is interested in purchasing the site to erect a transmission tower to carry electric lines across the Ohio to its new substation now under construction on Michigan Ave.

Meanwhile, the board has awarded contracts for a year's supply of chemicals used at the water treatment plant, along with cast iron pipe and water meters. The contracts, which had been under study since bids were opened May 21, were let Saturday.

Opalco Laboratory of McKeesport received two contracts. It will supply 250 tons of aluminum sulphate at a price of $33.20 a ton delivered in trailer load quantities, and 5,000 pounds of sodium chlorite at $59 a 100 pounds delivered.

The Fred J. Durner Chemical Co. of Pittsburgh was awarded a contract to supply 18,000 pounds of liquid chlorine at 12½ cents a pound delivered while the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co. of New York, the lone bidder, won the contract to supply 50 tons of activated carbon on its price of $159.34 a ton delivered.

The Standard Lime & Concrete Co., a division of Martin Marietta Corp. of Baltimore, will furnish 250 tons of lime on its low bid of $21.41 a ton for hydrated lime and $22.41 a ton for pebble lime delivered.

James B. Clow & Sons, Inc., of Chicago will furnish the cast iron pipe. The only bidder, it asked $1.375 per foot for 1,000 feet of 4-inch pipe with a mechanical joint; $2.055 per foot for 2,000 feet of 6-inch pipe with a mechanical joint, and $3.85 per foot for 1,000 feet of 10-inch pipe with a mechanical joint.

Hersey-Sparling Meter Co. of Dedham, Mass., received the contract to supply the meters. Its prices were $27.20 without connections and $28.56 with connections for ½-inch meters and $27.20 without connections and $29.24 with connections for the ¾-inch meters. The ½-inch and ¾-inch are the type most commonly used in residences.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I avoid the formation of spot rings on cloth when removing stains from garments?

A. You can prevent these ugly-looking rings by placing a felt-covered furniture floor cup under the spot before applying the cleaning fluid. In addition to preventing a ring from forming, the brush-like fibers of the felt also keep the material from slipping while the spot is being rubbed.

Q. Is there anything I can do about a cork in a vacuum bottle that has become to compressed and small for practical use?

A. You can often bring this cork back to normal by boiling it in a covered pan—this also sterilizing it.

Q. How can I clean a corroded steam iron?

A. Fill it with vinegar, and let it get very hot. Pour out the vinegar, and use distilled water only to keep your iron in good condition.

Q. Have you any ideas on remedying a leaking fountain pen?

A. Often you can make a leaking fountain pen socially acceptable again by covering the threaded grooves on the barrel with some colorless fingernail polish, allowing this to dry before replacing the cap.

Q. How can I renew some shoe polish that has become hard and caked?

A. Put a few drops of benzine or turpentine into the polish and place the open can into simmering water in a shallow metal container. When cool, your polish should be as good as new.

Q. How can I remove fish slime stains from materials?

A. By soaking in a solution made by adding a half-cup of salt and one cup of vinegar to two quarts of water. Rinse with plain water, and wash with warm water and soap.

GI Arrested After Fleeing Crash Scene

A Pennsylvania soldier who fled on foot from an auto accident in Wellsville early Sunday morning was taken into custody late last night and is scheduled to receive a hearing today before Mayor William Daugherty.

Robert H. Anderson, 24, of Ft. Lee, Va., whose home is at Avella, Pa., spent several hours in a nearby home after the auto he was driving crashed into two parked vehicles Sunday at 4:25 a. m. on Main St. just below 9th.

Anderson was driving a car owned by Pauline Forrester of Colliers, W. Va. It was demolished, along with parked cars owned by Robert L. Williams, 925½ Main St., Wellsville, and Carl L. Lowary of Elkhart, Ind.

Damage was estimated at $3,500 to the three vehicles.

Anderson was taken into custody shortly after 10:30 last night. Police received a call from the clerk at a store on lower Main St. that a suspicious person was loitering outside.

Anderson had fled the scene and went to the home of John Criss, 209 10th St. The family was visiting out-of-town at the time. He said the front door was unlocked so he entered and spent the remainder of the night and most of the day, leaving about 10 p. m., just before the Criss family returned.

Police said his face is swollen as if he may have been injured slightly.

Anderson told officers he doesn't remember anything from about 1 a. m. Sunday. He said at that time he was headed home and was about three miles from Avella. He said he blacked out and doesn't recall driving to Wellsville.

Police have charged him with reckless operation and leaving the scene of an accident.

The Massachusetts battle for the Democratic senatorial nomination is between Edward M. Kennedy, youngest brother of the President, and Edward J. McCormack Jr., nephew of Speaker of the House John W. McCormack.

Results of the Republican convention starting today in Connecticut are more meaningful, but also can be overturned. Actual nominations for governor, senator and congressman-at-large will be made but if a losing candidate gets 20 per cent of the 660 delegates, he can demand a primary election.

Front-runner for the senatorial nomination is John Lodge, former governor, house member and ambassador to Spain. He is the brother of Henry Cabot Lodge, Nixon's running mate in 1960. He hopes to succeed Republican Sen. Prescott Bush who announced he will retire. The Democrats convene in July.

In the Iowa primary today, Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper is expected to win Republican nomination to his fourth term. Iowa State University history professor E. B. Smith is unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

Board Seeks Bids For Sale Of City Land

The Board of Public Utilities said today it will open bids at noon July 13 for the sale of a one-acre tract of "bottom land" just west of the city's filtration plant on Michigan Ave.

The five-sided lot starts at a point about 205 feet south of Michigan Ave. and runs to the Ohio River bank, the board said.

Donald T. Duke, water department superintendent, said the Ohio Power Co. is interested in purchasing the site to erect a transmission tower to carry electric lines across the Ohio to its new substation now under construction on Michigan Ave.

Meanwhile, the board has awarded contracts for a year's supply of chemicals used at the water treatment plant, along with cast iron pipe and water meters. The contracts, which had been under study since bids were opened May 21, were let Saturday.

Opalco Laboratory of McKeesport received two contracts. It will supply 250 tons of aluminum sulphate at a price of $33.20 a ton delivered in trailer load quantities, and 5,000 pounds of sodium chlorite at $59 a 100 pounds delivered.

The Fred J. Durner Chemical Co. of Pittsburgh was awarded a contract to supply 18,000 pounds of liquid chlorine at 12½ cents a pound delivered while the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co. of New York, the lone bidder, won the contract to supply 50 tons of activated carbon on its price of $159.34 a ton delivered.

The Standard Lime & Concrete Co., a division of Martin Marietta Corp. of Baltimore, will furnish 250 tons of lime on its low bid of $21.41 a ton for hydrated lime and $22.41 a ton for pebble lime delivered.

James B. Clow & Sons, Inc., of Chicago will furnish the cast iron pipe. The only bidder, it asked $1.375 per foot for 1,000 feet of 4-inch pipe with a mechanical joint; $2.055 per foot for 2,000 feet of 6-inch pipe with a mechanical joint, and $3.85 per foot for 1,000 feet of 10-inch pipe with a mechanical joint.

Hersey-Sparling Meter Co. of Dedham, Mass., received the contract to supply the meters. Its prices were $27.20 without connections and $28.56 with connections for ½-inch meters and $27.20 without connections and $29.24 with connections for the ¾-inch meters. The ½-inch and ¾-inch are the type most commonly used in residences.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I avoid the formation of spot rings on cloth when removing stains from garments?

A. You can prevent these ugly-looking rings by placing a felt-covered furniture floor cup under the spot before applying the cleaning fluid. In addition to preventing a ring from forming, the brush-like fibers of the felt also keep the material from slipping while the spot is being rubbed.

Q. Is there anything I can do about a cork in a vacuum bottle that has become to compressed and small for practical use?

A. You can often bring this cork back to normal by boiling it in a covered pan—this also sterilizing it.

Q. How can I clean a corroded steam iron?

A. Fill it with vinegar, and let it get very hot. Pour out the vinegar, and use distilled water only to keep your iron in good condition.

Q. Have you any ideas on remedying a leaking fountain pen?

A. Often you can make a leaking fountain pen socially acceptable again by covering the threaded grooves on the barrel with some colorless fingernail polish, allowing this to dry before replacing the cap.

Q. How can I renew some shoe polish that has become hard and caked?

A. Put a few drops of benzine or turpentine into the polish and place the open can into simmering water in a shallow metal container. When cool, your polish should be as good as new.

Q. How can I remove fish slime stains from materials?

A. By soaking in a solution made by adding a half-cup of salt and one cup of vinegar to two quarts of water. Rinse with plain water, and wash with warm water and soap.

GI Arrested After Fleeing Crash Scene

A Pennsylvania soldier who fled on foot from an auto accident in Wellsville early Sunday morning was taken into custody late last night and is scheduled to receive a hearing today before Mayor William Daugherty.

Robert H. Anderson, 24, of Ft. Lee, Va., whose home is at Avella, Pa., spent several hours in a nearby home after the auto he was driving crashed into two parked vehicles Sunday at 4:25 a. m. on Main St. just below 9th.

Anderson was driving a car owned by Pauline Forrester of Colliers, W. Va. It was demolished, along with parked cars owned by Robert L. Williams, 925½ Main St., Wellsville, and Carl L. Lowary of Elkhart, Ind.

Damage was estimated at $3,500 to the three vehicles.

Anderson was taken into custody shortly after 10:30 last night. Police received a call from the clerk at a store on lower Main St. that a suspicious person was loitering outside.

Anderson had fled the scene and went to the home of John Criss, 209 10th St. The family was visiting out-of-town at the time. He said the front door was unlocked so he entered and spent the remainder of the night and most of the day, leaving about 10 p. m., just before the Criss family returned.

Police said his face is swollen as if he may have been injured slightly.

Anderson told officers he doesn't remember anything from about 1 a. m. Sunday. He said at that time he was headed home and was about three miles from Avella. He said he blacked out and doesn't recall driving to Wellsville.

Police have charged him with reckless operation and leaving the scene of an accident.

fire on incumbent Gov. Edmund G. Brown. The governor is expected to waltz away with the Democratic nomination over three little known opponents.

Nixon has been sharply attacked by his primary foe, Joseph Shell, who has questioned whether Nixon can beat Brown in November. Shell, an independent oilman of strongly conservative views, is leader of the minority Republican forces in the California Assembly.

The Massachusetts battle for the Democratic senatorial nomination is between Edward M. Kennedy, youngest brother of the President, and Edward J. McCormack Jr., nephew of Speaker of the House John W. McCormack.

Each seeks the endorsement of the party convention which, however, is not binding. Often the loser goes on to capture the prize in the September primary. But the three-day convention starting Thursday will provide the first measure of their relative strength.

Results of the Republican convention starting today in Connecticut are more meaningful, but also can be overturned. Actual nominations for governor, senator and congressman-at-large will be made but if a losing candidate gets 20 per cent of the 660 delegates, he can demand a primary election.

Front-runner for the senatorial nomination is John Lodge, former governor, house member and ambassador to Spain. He is the brother of Henry Cabot Lodge, Nixon's running mate in 1960. He hopes to succeed Republican Sen. Prescott Bush who announced he will retire. The Democrats convene in July.

In the Iowa primary today, Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper is expected to win Republican nomination to his fourth term. Iowa State University history professor E. B. Smith is unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

Socialism In The Mahoning Valley

If people who volunteer to fight socialism whereever it appears or even threatens to appear would look sharp they could spot a real threat in a proposal to build a toll-free canal between Ashtabula and Beaver, Pa., on the Ohio River.

Here would be a plain case of government ownership and operation of an essential tool of production.

The canal would have no purpose other than to furnish barge service to producers—especially steel producers—in the Youngstown area.

It would represent a free government service competing with existing railroads and truck lines. It would entail large-scale confiscation of private property.

In a very real sense, it would mean the government had used its taxing power to give one segment of the economy an advantage over other segments.

THE COST of this socialistic project would run upward of $3 billion, according to estimates by engineers employed by its critics.

Its friends, of course, would submit lower estimates, adding to them as costs mounted. No one would say the canal could be built cheaply. It would be a vast undertaking—105 miles long with a bottom width of up to 226 feet and a depth of 14 feet.

As an engineering project it is a challenge. The government is spending $280,000 for a study and is expected to spend up to half a million dollars altogether, just to develop background information.

The danger is that the engineering challenge might overshadow the more significant challenge involved in the canal—the challenge to fight socialism in the United States.

If the canal were economically feasible, private enterprise would be as eager to build it as proponents of the "rubber railroad" were to build a lake-to-river facility a few years ago. They had the same thing in mind—cheaper transportation of coal and iron ore.

Their idea came a cropper because they lacked the right of eminent domain; they couldn't confiscate a right-of-way.

The proposed canal would get around that by government ownership.

IT IS INCREDIBLE that so flagrant a move toward socialism can be proposed and considered with so little awareness of what it involves; that it can be backed and argued for by people otherwise so sensitive to socialism they can sense it in places where it never has happened.

This is a clear case. This time the wolf is in plain sight.

Ownership of the tools of production by government is socialism. Transportation is a tool of production. A toll-free Lake Erie-Ohio River barge canal built and operated at public expense to give the Mahoning Valley steel industry a competitive edge would be pure socialism.

The time to nip it in the bud is now, while the bud is $280,000 tender, before it starts to get $3 billion tough.

T. Fred Edwards

Add the name of T. Fred Edwards to the list of those whose untimely deaths have shocked the community.

Mr. Edwards was taken suddenly by a heart attack over the weekend.

In his duties as manager of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. office here, as an active member of the Chamber of Commerce and in many other worthwhile civic capacities he served East Liverpool well. His energies always were directed in a constructive direction.

Few were more friendly and few better liked than Fred Edwards.

If Anyone Mentions June . . .

Thanks to James Russell Lowell, June has been puffed up as the month when perfect days can be expected. "Then if ever come perfect days."

This year we had perfect days in May. As the rainfall deficit piled up, we finally had to face up to the fact we were having too many perfect days.

We'll have more perfect days in June, though it is capable of being wildly contrary —a headstrong month full of thunderstorms, capricious changes of wind direction and drops of temperature. But what we really want is a perfect balance between perfection and imperfection — say four perfect days and one rainy one.

This would be similar to a formula highly regarded by baseball managers having trouble with a shallow pitching staff — the star of the staff, then three days of rain. What we want is one day of rain, then three rainless ones. Seems reasonable.

Working Your Way

By G. K. Hodenfield

URBANA, Ill.

It still is possible to work your way through college without loans, grants, scholarships or help from your parents.

The proof: Thousands of students do it every year. But it can be rough.

It may take you five years instead of four. Your grades may suffer (although not necessarily). Your social life may be limited. You may miss a lot of the rah-rah fun of college, as well as more serious extra-curricular activities. You may be limited in the choice of colleges you can attend.

But it can be done, and the rewards are great.

Dennis S. Acuncius is doing it here at the University of Illinois.

"The only way I could go to college was to work my way through, and I realized the only way I could ever amount to anything was to go to college," he said in an interview.

Nancy Walsh is doing it, too.

"I realized while working a year (before entering the university) that I would have to go to college to get any place," she said. "I don't have time to participate in campus activities, and I have no time for my favorite recreation — bowling and outdoor spectator sports. But I have never been tempted to quit school."

William O. Baillie is another making it on his own.

"HAVING TO work my way through makes me want to go to college just that much more," he said. "My social life suffers from having to work and study a lot, but that can wait. Getting a good, well-rounded liberal education is the most important thing to me."

There is nothing new, of course, in working your way through college. During the depression it was the accepted thing.

Even today an estimated one-third of all college students hold down a job during the school year.

But somehow it has become "less fashionable" than it used to be to put yourself through college, according to a group of experts who met here recently.

Student employment directors, from a number of Midwestern universities said, "We believe it is high time that the benefits of working one's way through college be re-emphasized.

"Too many students failing to get a loan or a scholarship simply do not go to school. Far too many of our dropouts fail to even investigate the possibilities of part-time and summer employment."

One reason probably is all the publicity that has been given to the rising costs of college.

College costs have risen, tremendously, but so have the salaries paid working students. It has never been easy to work your way through college, but it probably isn't any harder today than it was when dad was a freshman.

In the late 1930s, the typical wage scale for students working campus jobs was 30 cents an hour. Today it is near $1.25 an hour. The going rate on a board job in the 1930s was three hours work for three meals. Today a student can earn enough for three meals with only two hours work.

"WE FIRMLY believe that it is possible for a student to finance his own college education through a combination of part-time work — about 15 hours per week — during the academic year and a full-time job during the summer months," says John R. Griffin, assistant dean of students at Illinois.

There probably isn't a working student on any campus in the country who doesn't think he could get better grades if he weren't working.

But the student employment directors disagree. Because a working student must budget his time as well as his money, they said, he tends to develop stronger study habits.

The working student should realize that the prestige-laden private colleges and universities — where tuition, room and board alone can cost $2,000 a year or more — are out of his financial class.

Many smaller, less expensive (but still excellent) private institutions are in small communities where job possibilities are limited.

All things considered, the best bet for a working student probably is a public college or university within his own state. Tax-supported institutions are able to keep student costs to a minimum, and most are large enough to provide student employment.

A Real Battle

Evidence of a fierce, prehistoric battle involving man against mammoth has been unearthed in a Wyoming bog.

The Ice Age beast had a rough coat of shaggy, reddish-brown hair, stood 11 feet at the shoulder and weighed about five tons. It apparently was driven by hunters into the swamp about 11,000 years ago, then slain with boulders and spears.

Bones of the mammoth and the hunters' weapons were excavated near Rawlins, Wyo. in a project sponsored by the National Geographic Society. The expedition was led by Dr. George Agogino, professor of anthropology at the University of Wyoming. He was assisted by Cynthia Irwin and her brother Henry, graduate students at Harvard University.

Harvard's Peabody Museum and the University of Wyoming supervised extraction of the mammoth's skeleton, which is one of the best preserved ever found in the United States. The elephant-like creature became extinct in North America some 8,000 years ago.

Like so many scientific discoveries, the Wyoming mammoth was chanced upon. A gas-well company was drilling in the area when crewman Ivan Hayes' scoop struck a snag. Investigating, he found himself gazing upon the biggest bones he'd ever seen. Hayes called Dr. Agogino.

The anthropologist organized an impromptu dig. He mustered a geological survey team, Rawlins High School students, geology students from the university, even janitors. The hunt was on.

Reporting For Duty, Sir!

Japan Trades With The Enemy

By Victor Riesel

Confidential reports disclose that our friends, Tokyo's industrialists are trading with the enemy — a shooting enemy at that, unless all the noise in Laos and Viet Nam comes from a dragon-sized fireworks display. "Trading" is a charitable word. Supplying the enemy would be more accurate. And at a moment when Communist China needs hardware most.

Victor Riesel

There, for example, is a desperate need for trucks in Mao's China. While millions starve and tear with helpless hands at British barbed wire around the Canton-Hong Kong border, Peiping's surveyors and engineers have been directing forced labor in the construction of costly highway networks leading from China into India and Russia. Many of these roads are now complete. New supplies of big trucks for these roads have been coming in from Czechoslovakia. But not enough.

So Peiping turned to Japanese manufacturers. Successfully. On May 2, they closed the deal. On that day the Japanese International Trade and Industry Ministry approved the export of 200 trucks to the Communist Mainland.

They must have been big trucks, too. The total package was $1.4 million worth of vehicles. This makes it $7,000 a piece.

SUCH A SUM would call for big equipment in the United States at our prices. But at the low Japanese rates, the carriers supplied must be behemoth. Certainly these could be used in the current Communist military buildup.

But the trucks are only part of Tokyo's trade plans for Communized China. During the second week in May, the Japanese Supreme Export Council decided to launch big commercial drives in Communist countries.

This is the privilege of the gentlemen of Japan. It is also the privilege of the free American press to report this trading with governments which have ordered military invasion of allied nations — and which have forced the United States to dispatch its young men to jungle fronts.

I talk not of the supplying of food to a starving Chinese people. Nor of the implements to till that good — though reddened — earth.

My authority is the Japanese-Chinese Trade Promotion Association. It reports that the Peiping government is ready to place orders in Japan for heavy electrical machinery, chemical machines, and other heavy "equipment."

The Japanese want these orders. For them it is good business. They also are preparing to send rolled steel, big automatic industrial production equipment and the vitals for vast plants of many kinds.

Nor are the Japanese taking any chances on Communist credit. The Supreme Export Council has worked up a "deferred payment plan" to make certain the Peiping government makes good the $50 to $75 million for which the Tokyo businessman will bill it.

UNDER THIS PLAN the maximum period for deferred payment will be five years. The scheme calls for letters of credit from Communist China's People's Bank, but guaranteed by a bank of a third country.

This deferred plan has been "hailed" by Tokyo's business houses as a "step towards the establishment of long-term trade relations between" Communist China and Japan.

This report would not be complete without word from the labor side in Japan. Labor there, too, feels no pain over such "neutrality."

There are many outright Communist — and allied left wing Socialist — controlled labor outfits. But I write now of a non-Communist union called the Denki Roren — All-Japan Federation of Electric Machine Workers unions.

This is the organization whose members gain so much from our free-trade policy which permits them to pour transistor, TV, radio, etc., parts into the U.S. Recently they were planning a convention. They were asked to affiliate with anti-Communist international labor organizations.

WORD was dispatched to United States unions as well as anti-Communist labor circles in Geneva that this would not be done with the flip of a phrase in a resolution. The convention leaders advised that they wanted to hear from spokesmen of the Soviet global labor outfit, the World Federation of Trade Unions — specializing in anti-U. S. demonstrations.

So Jim Carey, leader of the U.S. International Union of Electrical Workers — carrying a message from President Kennedy — spoke in behalf of the anti-Communists. And a Sovieteer by name of Jean Marillier spoke for the Communists. At this writing the count is not in. But that's not the point.

Polite neutrality towards the Communists is the point. Isn't it time our friends realized the other side is shooting at us.

Life Of A Lapp

Life for the Lapps is not all reindeer and colorful costumes. The 20th century has arrived in belatedly in Lapland.

About 32,600 of the hardy Arctic people live in an ethnic region that cuts across boundaries in northern Europe.

There are 20,000 Lapps in Norway, 8,500 in Sweden, 2,300 in Finland and 1,800 in Russia. Most of them are fishermen and farmers. Only about a fifth are reindeer herders, and a small minority of these are nomads or semi-nomads.

For most "Reindeer Lapps", herding is a business, not a means of subsistence. They find a profitable market for meat and hides. Some use airplanes and radio telephones to keep track of their animals. Many remain in warm houses in winter and hire men to tend their deer.

The sturdy farmhouses are a sharp contrast to the nomads' traditional reindeer-skin tents, where smoke was almost unbearable in the day and temperatures dropped below zero durng winter nights.

But old nomads cling to their habits when they winter in farmhouses. They still sit and sleep on the floor.

Profit-Squeeze Panic

By David Lawrence

Investors Fear Drop In Dividend Values

What's been happening in the stock market probably can be described as the "profit-squeeze panic." The key to an understanding of the decline as well as a clue to possible recovery can be found in the operations of the age-old law of profit or loss in a free enterprise system.

David Lawrence

The investor in stocks has not been attracted by dividend rates as such in the last year or so, for he really could get a better income on his money simply by buying bonds. What the investor has been betting on is a steady increase in the profits of the companies themselves. This would mean a capital gain for him, because securities go up as profits rise. They are usually valued on the ratio of a certain number of times their earnings.

Thus, in early 1958, in computing value, the ratio was about 15 times earnings. The hope that dividends would grow as profits grew caused the ratio to rise recently to an average of 23 times earnings. This was at the end of 1961. The prices paid for stocks, therefore, reflected a high appraisal of future earnings.

It was the expectation of a recovery from the recession of 1960 and the good reports coming from several lines of business that caused the stock market to attain its peak of prices on Dec. 13, 1961, when the Dow-Jones Averages on all stocks reached 735.

Thereafter, as it became apparent that the labor unions were going to insist on higher and higher wage demands, the financial community began to hear reports of a "profit squeeze."

The increased volume of business transactions didn't mean an increase in the rate of profit on sales for the corporations. The market consequently drifted downward from 735 to about 700 on April 6, 1962. This wasn't a severe drop, relatively speaking, as the figure of 685 had been recorded in January 1960. So a change of 35 points was not enough in itself to cause a loss of confidence in the future.

Then came President Kennedy's dramatic intervention in the process of price making in the national economy. His press conference of April 11 shocked the business world. He threatened reprisals. He implied that the U.S. Steel Corp. had done something illegal, and FBI agents were ordered into the act.

The net result was a feeling that the administration would use any means, legal or otherwise, to halt any price increases but that it would not restrain the increases in wage costs which the unions were demanding.

Everything the President said in speeches of reassurance to businessmen was compared with the pronouncements of labor leaders who began urging the 35-hour week at the same pay as that received for 40 hours of work.

Despite a few gentle words of disagreement from the White House — which the labor leaders ignored — the whole system of price making in large industries had become demoralized.

A profit squeeze was clearly indicated as the inevitable trend perhaps of the next few years.

WHEN WAGE COSTS go up while price increases are tabooed, there can be only one consequence —a narrowing of the profit margin. When that happens, the dividend rate cannot be increased. In fact, even continuance of the same dividend rate as before sometimes becomes imperiled.

Many investors thereupon took a realistic view of what was happening and determined to sell their stocks.

From April 11, when the President declared war on the steel companies, through Monday, May 28, inclusive, the stock market averages fell from 695 to 477. This was a drop of 118 points in 47 days, or more than three times the decline in the 119 days prior to the steel episode.

Indeed, the drop in values before the steel controversy was about $24.4 billion, whereas after the President's announcement of his price policy it fell by another $93.3 billion, for a total of $117.7 billion since the preceding December.

At the end of the trading on Thursday, May 31, the market had recovered somewhat, but the total loss since last December still remained between $90 and $95 billion.

STOCK MARKET fluctuations may continue with wide swings in either direction, just as happened in 1930 and 1931 after the sensational break of October 1929. But the important factor, which in the long range situation will be definitive, is the measurement of profits.

If business is to be held down on prices, if labor unions are to go on forcing an increase in wage costs and if the administration continues to exclaim that it is helpless to do anything about labor's behavior, then the jig is up.

The profit squeeze will continue and investors will see little hope for stocks to rise in value or to pay good dividends.

If the President now would ask Congress to give "equal protection of the law" to companies in business, and if something were done by law to rid the country of conspiracies practiced by nation-wide labor unions which restrain trade constantly and impair interstate commerce — as the principle is set worth in the anti-monopoly law that govern business —the opportunity for better profit margins would arise overnight. The whole economy would then be healthier.

Expansion could be planned on the basis of reasonable expectations. More jobs would be created. Unemployment would be substantially reduced, if not eliminated, as a factor. The road to prosperity would then be clearly marked for all to see.

Letters To The Editor

I am writing in reference to the Letter To The Editor in the Memorial Day paper.

The item was on the Beaver Local eighth-grade party and, as I read in the article, the dance which followed.

I just want to set a few people on the right track.

My husband and I do not have any children in the eighth grade. We have one son, a junior at Beaver Local High, and one in the third grade at Calcutta. So we would have no reason to attend an eighth-grade program.

As far as I know and could check, there isn't even an R. J. White on the Sprucevale Rd. in Calcutta or a child by that name who graduated from the eighth grade. I had their program checked from the school by a friend.

We are getting phone calls and complaints from people about the article for which we are not responsible.

It might have been a relative attending. If so, I think the teachers and parents have the right to decide what their children want.

I have been a home room mother also a home room mother's helper off and on for the last 16 years at both Calcutta and Beaver Local schools. I have attended dances and parties.

I don't think anyone can say a thing wrong about the Beaver Local School District being responsible for anything without our children being in mind.

I think I can speak for all the parents that we are very proud of our schools, teachers and supervisors.

Our family has been connected with the Beaver Local district for 18 years.

I don't care how many letters they write, but I wish they would please remember and be a little more thoughtful as they stated in their article and use their full name and address so as people can distinguish the difference in the families.

Socialism In The Mahoning Valley

If people who volunteer to fight socialism whereever it appears or even threatens to appear would look sharp they could spot a real threat in a proposal to build a toll-free canal between Ashtabula and Beaver, Pa., on the Ohio River.

Here would be a plain case of government ownership and operation of an essential tool of production.

The canal would have no purpose other than to furnish barge service to producers—especially steel producers—in the Youngstown area.

It would represent a free government service competing with existing railroads and truck lines. It would entail large-scale confiscation of private property.

In a very real sense, it would mean the government had used its taxing power to give one segment of the economy an advantage over other segments.

THE COST of this socialistic project would run upward of $3 billion, according to estimates by engineers employed by its critics.

Its friends, of course, would submit lower estimates, adding to them as costs mounted. No one would say the canal could be built cheaply. It would be a vast undertaking—105 miles long with a bottom width of up to 226 feet and a depth of 14 feet.

As an engineering project it is a challenge. The government is spending $280,000 for a study and is expected to spend up to half a million dollars altogether, just to develop background information.

The danger is that the engineering challenge might overshadow the more significant challenge involved in the canal—the challenge to fight socialism in the United States.

If the canal were economically feasible, private enterprise would be as eager to build it as proponents of the "rubber railroad" were to build a lake-to-river facility a few years ago. They had the same thing in mind—cheaper transportation of coal and iron ore.

Their idea came a cropper because they lacked the right of eminent domain; they couldn't confiscate a right-of-way.

The proposed canal would get around that by government ownership.

IT IS INCREDIBLE that so flagrant a move toward socialism can be proposed and considered with so little awareness of what it involves; that it can be backed and argued for by people otherwise so sensitive to socialism they can sense it in places where it never has happened.

This is a clear case. This time the wolf is in plain sight.

Ownership of the tools of production by government is socialism. Transportation is a tool of production. A toll-free Lake Erie-Ohio River barge canal built and operated at public expense to give the Mahoning Valley steel industry a competitive edge would be pure socialism.

The time to nip it in the bud is now, while the bud is $280,000 tender, before it starts to get $3 billion tough.

T. Fred Edwards

Add the name of T. Fred Edwards to the list of those whose untimely deaths have shocked the community.

Mr. Edwards was taken suddenly by a heart attack over the weekend.

In his duties as manager of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. office here, as an active member of the Chamber of Commerce and in many other worthwhile civic capacities he served East Liverpool well. His energies always were directed in a constructive direction.

Few were more friendly and few better liked than Fred Edwards.

If Anyone Mentions June . . .

Thanks to James Russell Lowell, June has been puffed up as the month when perfect days can be expected. "Then if ever come perfect days."

This year we had perfect days in May. As the rainfall deficit piled up, we finally had to face up to the fact we were having too many perfect days.

We'll have more perfect days in June, though it is capable of being wildly contrary—a headstrong month full of thunderstorms, capricious changes of wind direction and drops of temperature. But what we really want is a perfect balance between perfection and imperfection — say four perfect days and one rainy one.

This would be similar to a formula highly regarded by baseball managers having trouble with a shallow pitching staff — the star of the staff, then three days of rain. What we want is one day of rain, then three rainless ones. Seems reasonable.

Working Your Way

By G. K. Hodenfield

URBANA, Ill.

It still is possible to work your way through college without loans, grants, scholarships or help from your parents.

The proof: Thousands of students do it every year. But it can be rough.

It may take you five years instead of four. Your grades may suffer (although not necessarily). Your social life may be limited. You may miss a lot of the rah-rah fun of college, as well as more serious extra-curricular activities. You may be limited in the choice of colleges you can attend.

But it can be done, and the rewards are great.

Dennis S. Acuncius is doing it here at the University of Illinois.

"The only way I could go to college was to work my way through, and I realized the only way I could ever amount to anything was to go to college," he said in an interview.

Nancy Walsh is doing it, too.

"I realized while working a year (before entering the university) that I would have to go to college to get any place," she said. "I don't have time to participate in campus activities, and I have no time for my favorite recreation — bowling and outdoor spectator sports. But I have never been tempted to quit school."

William O. Baillie is another making it on his own.

"HAVING TO work my way through makes me want to go to college just that much more," he said. "My social life suffers from having to work and study a lot, but that can wait. Getting a good, well-rounded liberal education is the most important thing to me."

There is nothing new, of course, in working your way through college. During the depression it was the accepted thing.

Even today an estimated one-third of all college students hold down a job during the school year.

But somehow it has become "less fashionable" than it used to be to put yourself through college, according to a group of experts who met here recently.

Student employment directors, from a number of Midwestern universities said, "We believe it is high time that the benefits of working one's way through college be re-emphasized.

"Too many students failing to get a loan or a scholarship simply do not go to school. Far too many of our dropouts fail to even investigate the possibilities of part - time and summer employment."

One reason probably is all the publicity that has been given to the rising costs of college.

College costs have risen, tremendously, but so have the salaries paid working students. It has never been easy to work your way through college, but it probably isn't any harder today than it was when dad was a freshman.

In the late 1930s, the typical wage scale for students working campus jobs was 30 cents an hour. Today it is near $1.25 an hour. The going rate on a board job in the 1930s was three hours work for three meals. Today a student can earn enough for three meals with only two hours work.

"WE FIRMLY believe that it is possible for a student to finance his own college education through a combination of part-time work — about 15 hours per week — during the academic year and a full-time job during the summer months," says John R. Griffin, assistant dean of students at Illinois.

There probably isn't a working student on any campus in the country who doesn't think he could get better grades if he weren't working.

But the student employment directors disagree. Because a working student must budget his time as well as his money, they said, he tends to develop stronger study habits.

The working student should realize that the prestige - laden private colleges and universities — where tuition, room and board alone can cost $2,000 a year or more — are out of his financial class.

Many smaller, less expensive (but still excellent) private institutions are in small communities where job possibilities are limited.

All things considered, the best bet for a working student probably is a public college or university within his own state. Tax-supported institutions are able to keep student costs to a minimum, and most are large enough to provide student employment.

A Real Battle

Evidence of a fierce, prehistoric battle involving man against mammoth has been unearthed in a Wyoming bog.

The Ice Age beast had a rough coat of shaggy, reddish - brown hair, stood 11 feet at the shoulder and weighed about five tons. It apparently was driven by hunters into the swamp about 11,000 years ago, then slain with boulders and spears.

Bones of the mammoth and the hunters' weapons were excavated near Rawlins, Wyo. in a project sponsored by the National Geographic Society. The expedition was led by Dr. George Agogino, professor of anthropology at the University of Wyoming. He was assisted by Cynthia Irwin and her brother Henry, graduate students at Harvard University.

Harvard's Peabody Museum and the University of Wyoming supervised extraction of the mammoth's skeleton, which is one of the best preserved ever found in the United States. The elephant - like creature became extinct in North America some 8,000 years ago.

Like so many scientific discoveries, the Wyoming mammoth was chanced upon. A gas-well company was drilling in the area when crewman Ivan Hayes' scoop struck a snag. Investigating, he found himself gazing upon the biggest bones he'd ever seen. Hayes called Dr. Agogino.

The anthropologist organized an impromptu dig. He mustered a geological survey team, Rawlins High School students, geology students from the university, even janitors. The hunt was on.

Reporting For Duty, Sir!

Japan Trades With The Enemy

By Victor Riesel

Confidential reports disclose that our friends, Tokyo's industrialists are trading with the enemy — a shooting enemy at that, unless all the noise in Laos and Viet Nam comes from a dragon-sized fireworks display. "Trading" is a charitable word. Supplying the enemy would be more accurate. And at a moment when Communist China needs hardware most.

Victor Riesel

There, for example, is a desperate need for trucks in Mao's China. While millions starve and tear with helpless hands at British barbed wire around the Canton-Hong Kong border, Peiping's surveyors and engineers have been directing forced labor in the construction of costly highway networks leading from China into India and Russia. Many of these roads are now complete. New supplies of big trucks for these roads have been coming in from Czechoslovakia. But not enough.

So Peiping turned to Japanese manufacturers. Successfully. On May 2, they closed the deal. On that day the Japanese International Trade and Industry Ministry approved the export of 200 trucks to the Communist Mainland.

They must have been big trucks, too. The total package was $1.4 million worth of vehicles. This makes it $7,000 a piece.

SUCH A SUM would call for big equipment in the United States at our prices. But at the low Japanese rates, the carriers supplied must be behemoth. Certainly these could be used in the current Communist military buildup.

But the trucks are only part of Tokyo's trade plans for Communized China. During the second week in May, the Japanese Supreme Export Council decided to launch big commercial drives in Communist countries.

This is the privilege of the gentlemen of Japan. It is also the privilege of the free American press to report this trading with governments which have ordered military invasion of allied nations — and which have forced the United States to dispatch its young men to jungle fronts.

I talk not of the supplying of food to a starving Chinese people. Nor of the implements to till that good — though reddened — earth.

My authority is the Japanese-Chinese Trade Promotion Association. It reports that the Peiping government is ready to place orders in Japan for heavy electrical machinery, chemical machines, and other heavy "equipment."

The Japanese want these orders. For them it is good business. They also are preparing to send rolled steel, big automatic industrial production equipment and the vitals for vast plants of many kinds.

Nor are the Japanese taking any chances on Communist credit. The Supreme Export Council has worked up a "deferred payment plan" to make certain the Peiping government makes good the $50 to $75 million for which the Tokyo businessman will bill it.

UNDER THIS PLAN the maximum period for deferred payment will be five years. The scheme calls for letters of credit from Communist China's People's Bank, but guaranteed by a bank of a third country.

This deferred plan has been "hailed" by Tokyo's business houses as a "step towards the establishment of long-term trade relations between" Communist China and Japan.

This report would not be complete without word from the labor side in Japan. Labor there, too, feels no pain over such "neutrality."

There are many outright Communist — and allied left wing Socialist — controlled labor outfits. But I write now of a non-Communist union called the Denki Roren — All-Japan Federation of Electric Machine Workers unions.

This is the organization whose members gain so much from our free-trade policy which permits them to pour transistor, TV, radio, etc., parts into the U.S. Recently they were planning a convention. They were asked to affiliate with anti - Communist international labor organizations.

WORD was dispatched to United States unions as well as anti- Communist labor circles in Geneva that this would not be done with the flip of a phrase in a resolution. The convention leaders advised that they wanted to hear from spokesmen of the Soviet global labor outfit, the World Federation of Trade Unions — specializing in anti-U. S. demonstrations.

So Jim Carey, leader of the U.S. International Union of Electrical Workers — carrying a message from President Kennedy — spoke in behalf of the anti-Communists. And a Sovieteer by name of Jean Marillier spoke for the Communists. At this writing the count is not in. But that's not the point.

Polite neutrality towards the Communists is the point. Isn't it time our friends realized the other side is shooting at us.

Life Of A Lapp

Life for the Lapps is not all reindeer and colorful costumes. The 20th century has arrived in belatedly in Lapland.

About 32,600 of the hardy Arctic people live in an ethnic region that cuts across boundaries in northern Europe.

There are 20,000 Lapps in Norway, 8,500 in Sweden, 2,300 in Finland and 1,800 in Russia. Most of them are fishermen and farmers. Only about a fifth are reindeer herders, and a small minority of these are nomads or semi-nomads.

For most "Reindeer Lapps", herding is a business, not a means of subsistence. They find a profitable market for meat and hides. Some use airplanes and radio telephones to keep track of their animals. Many remain in warm houses in winter and hire men to tend their deer.

The sturdy farmhouses are a sharp contrast to the nomads' traditional reindeer-skin tents, where smoke was almost unbearable in the day and temperatures dropped below zero durng winter nights.

But old nomads cling to their habits when they winter in farmhouses. They still sit and sleep on the floor.

Profit-Squeeze Panic

By David Lawrence

Investors Fear Drop In Dividend Values

What's been happening in the stock market probably can be described as the "profit-squeeze panic." The key to an understanding of the decline as well as a clue to possible recovery can be found in the operations of the age - old law of profit or loss in a free enterprise system.

David Lawrence

The investor in stocks has not been attracted by dividend rates as such in the last year or so, for he really could get a better income on his money simply by buying bonds. What the investor has been betting on is a steady increase in the profits of the companies themselves. This would mean a capital gain for him, because securities go up as profits rise. They are usually valued on the ratio of a certain number of times their earnings.

Thus, in early 1958, in computing value, the ratio was about 15 times earnings. The hope that dividends would grow as profits grew caused the ratio to rise recently to an average of 23 times earnings. This was at the end of 1961. The prices paid for stocks, therefore, reflected a high appraisal of future earnings.

It was the expectation of a recovery from the recession of 1960 and the good reports coming from several lines of business that caused the stock market to attain its peak of prices on Dec. 13, 1961, when the Dow-Jones Averages on all stocks reached 735.

Thereafter, as it became apparent that the labor unions were going to insist on higher and higher wage demands, the financial community began to hear reports of a "profit squeeze."

The increased volume of business transactions didn't mean an increase in the rate of profit on sales for the corporations. The market consequently drifted downward from 735 to about 700 on April 6, 1962. This wasn't a severe drop, relatively speaking, as the figure of 685 had been recorded in January 1960. So a change of 35 points was not enough in itself to cause a loss of confidence in the future.

Then came President Kennedy's dramatic intervention in the process of price making in the national economy. His press conference of April 11 shocked the business world. He threatened reprisals. He implied that the U.S. Steel Corp. had done something illegal, and FBI agents were ordered into the act.

The net result was a feeling that the administration would use any means, legal or otherwise, to halt any price increases but that it would not restrain the increases in wage costs which the unions were demanding.

Everything the President said in speeches of reassurance to businessmen was compared with the pronouncements of labor leaders who began urging the 35-hour week at the same pay as that received for 40 hours of work.

Despite a few gentle words of disagreement from the White House — which the labor leaders ignored — the whole system of price making in large industries had become demoralized.

A profit squeeze was clearly indicated as the inevitable trend perhaps of the next few years.

WHEN WAGE COSTS go up while price increases are tabooed, there can be only one consequence —a narrowing of the profit margin. When that happens, the dividend rate cannot be increased. In fact, even continuance of the same dividend rate as before sometimes becomes imperiled.

Many investors thereupon took a realistic view of what was happening and determined to sell their stocks.

From April 11, when the President declared war on the steel companies, through Monday, May 28, inclusive, the stock market averages fell from 695 to 477. This was a drop of 118 points in 47 days, or more than three times the decline in the 119 days prior to the steel episode.

Indeed, the drop in values before the steel controversy was about $24.4 billion, whereas after the President's announcement of his price policy it fell by another $93.3 billion, for a total of $117.7 billion since the preceding December.

At the end of the trading on Thursday, May 31, the market had recovered somewhat, but the total loss since last December still remained between $90 and $95 billion.

STOCK MARKET fluctuations may continue with wide swings in either direction, just as happened in 1930 and 1931 after the sensational break of October 1929. But the important factor, which in the long range situation will be definitive, is the measurement of profits.

If business is to be held down on prices, if labor unions are to go on forcing an increase in wage costs and if the administration continues to exclaim that it is helpless to do anything about labor's behavior, then the jig is up.

The profit squeeze will continue and investors will see little hope for stocks to rise in value or to pay good dividends.

If the President now would ask Congress to give "equal protection of the law" to companies in business, and if something were done by law to rid the country of conspiracies practiced by nation-wide labor unions which restrain trade constantly and impair interstate commerce — as the principle is set worth in the anti-monopoly law that govern business —the opportunity for better profit margins would arise overnight. The whole economy would then be healthier.

2-Way Crash Of City Autos Hurts Women

Two women were injured when an auto with faulty brakes struck a car backing out of a driveway at a Prospect St. home Sunday morning, police reported.

The crash involved a 1953 sedan operated by Earl E. Hayman, 37, of 910 St. Clair Ave. and a 1957 four-door sedan driven by Edward Lowe, 61, of 400 Prospect St., officers said.

Injured were Mrs. Annabell Hayman, 40, and Mrs. Marie Lowe, 57.

Both were admitted to City Hospital. They were passengers in their husbands' cars.

Mrs. Hayman is in "fairly good" condition today with contusions of the knee and back strain. Mrs. Lowe is in "good" condition with a whiplash injury of the neck and a possible back strain.

Officers said Hayman was driving west on Prospect St. and Lowe was backing out of the driveway from the garage at his home when the brakes failed on Hayman's car, causing it to strike Lowe's auto. The crash was timed at 10:38.

There also was damage to the lawn and a tree and a wall at the Lowe property, which is 100 feet east of Lincoln Ave., officers said. The crash damaged the front of Hayman's car and the rear of Lowe's, police reported. There also was possible damage to the front and the under carriage of the Lowe car, officers said.

Two ambulances were summoned to remove the injured women to the hospital. Patrolmen Charles E. (Bill) Tice and Ronald J. Brookes investigated.

Two autos were damaged in a sideswiping crash Saturday at 12:50 p. m. on Dresden Ave., police said.

The mishap involved a southbound 1960 two-door sedan driven by James Suggs, 50, of Akron and a northbound 1958 coupe operated by Sestilio Bruni, 65, of Pittsburgh. Damage was minor. Each driver blamed the other for the mishap, officers said.

Officers Quiz Gunman Who Shot Clevelander

CLEVELAND (AP) — An East Side man who told police he was hired to "rough up" an insurance agent was being questioned today in the shooting of the insurance man.

Marshall J. Weil, the insurance agent, was wounded critically Sunday when a .45-caliber bullet ripped through his left arm, chest, lung, spleen and colon and broke two ribs. The bullet came out Weil's right side. He was being treated in Huron Road Hospital.

Being questioned was Lester T. Russaw, 28, who has been unemployed for four years. Police, while not discounting Russaw's story, said it was possible Russaw was working alone under the impression that Weil carried a lot of money.

Russaw, arrested Sunday outside his home admitted the shooting, detectives said, but claimed it was accidental.

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Robert Fuller, a "bad guy" on the "Laramie" television series, was on the good side of the law Sunday, police said.

Fuller was moving into his new home in North Hollywood when he heard a noise at a window.

He told officers he grabbed a pistol, dashed out the front door and caught a man about to crawl through the window into the house. Fuller held the man at gunpoint while a passing motorist called police.

Officers said the suspect, Robert Potter, 25, a transient, had several letters from Fuller's mail box. He was booked on suspicion of burglary.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

2-Way Crash Of City Autos Hurts Women

Two women were injured when an auto with faulty brakes struck a car backing out of a driveway at a Prospect St. home Sunday morning, police reported.

The crash involved a 1953 sedan operated by Earl E. Hayman, 37, of 910 St. Clair Ave. and a 1957 four-door sedan driven by Edward Lowe, 61, of 400 Prospect St., officers said.

Injured were Mrs. Annabell Hayman, 40, and Mrs. Marie Lowe, 57.

Both were admitted to City Hospital. They were passengers in their husbands' cars.

Mrs. Hayman is in "fairly good" condition today with contusions of the knee and back strain. Mrs. Lowe is in "good" condition with a whiplash injury of the neck and a possible back strain.

Officers said Hayman was driving west on Prospect St. and Lowe was backing out of the driveway from the garage at his home when the brakes failed on Hayman's car, causing it to strike Lowe's auto. The crash was timed at 10:38.

There also was damage to the lawn and a tree and a wall at the Lowe property, which is 100 feet east of Lincoln Ave., officers said. The crash damaged the front of Hayman's car and the rear of Lowe's, police reported. There also was possible damage to the front and the under carriage of the Lowe car, officers said.

Two ambulances were summoned to remove the injured women to the hospital. Patrolmen Charles E. (Bill) Tice and Ronald J. Brookes investigated.

Two autos were damaged in a sideswiping crash Saturday at 12:50 p. m. on Dresden Ave., police said.

The mishap involved a southbound 1960 two-door sedan driven by James Suggs, 50, of Akron and a northbound 1958 coupe operated by Sestilio Bruni, 65, of Pittsburgh. Damage was minor. Each driver blamed the other for the mishap, officers said.

Officers Quiz Gunman Who Shot Clevelander

CLEVELAND (AP) — An East Side man who told police he was hired to "rough up" an insurance agent was being questioned today in the shooting of the insurance man.

Marshall J. Weil, the insurance agent, was wounded critically Sunday when a .45-caliber bullet ripped through his left arm, chest, lung, spleen and colon and broke two ribs. The bullet came out Weil's right side. He was being treated in Huron Road Hospital.

Being questioned was Lester T. Russaw, 28, who has been unemployed for four years. Police, while not discounting Russaw's story, said it was possible Russaw was working alone under the impression that Weil carried a lot of money.

Russaw, arrested Sunday outside his home admitted the shooting, detectives said, but claimed it was accidental.

Burglar At Hollywood

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Robert Fuller, a "bad guy" on the "Laramie" television series, was on the good side of the law Sunday, police said.

Fuller was moving into his new home in North Hollywood when he heard a noise at a window.

He told officers he grabbed a pistol, dashed out the front door and caught a man about to crawl through the window into the house. Fuller held the man at gunpoint while a passing motorist called police.

Officers said the suspect, Robert Potter, 25, a transient, had several letters from Fuller's mail box. He was booked on suspicion of burglary.

Disaster

oped as it roared down the runway, but the plane was going too fast.

The four-engine, $6-million airliner rose only a few feet, then plunged to the ground and thundered ahead for 300 yards toward a cluster of homes in a village bordering the airfield.

Spouting flames, the jet smashed through a fence at the end of the runway and raced wildly over a rolling, wooded slope before coming to a halt at the doorsteps of homes in the hamlet of Villeneuve le Roi.

The blast from exploding fuel tanks startled the village residents just sitting down for lunch.

The takeoff just before 1 p.m. was in clear, bright weather—one of Paris' sunniest days this summer.

The recording of the pilot's last words with the control tower at Orly Field was held by the district magistrate. The magistrate said the pilot's exchange was routine—asking the tower for permission to take off and getting the go ahead.

The inspector general in charge of the investigation said he noted skid marks on the runway which indicated the pilot had his brakes on for about 500 yards. The smouldering wreckage was searched for the automatic recorder which would give a clue to the plane's final fatal seconds.

Air France said the American-built Boeing had flown in from New York only a few hours before and had been inspected before the return flight. It showed no trouble on the eastward crossing, officials said.

The death toll of 130 was the worst in a single-plane crash in aviation history — exceeding by one the number killed in a 1953 crash of a U.S. Air Force C124 Globemaster near Tokyo.

It was the fourth crash of a 707 since the big jet went into commercial service in October 1958. The Boeing Airplane Co., builders of the plane, said it has delivered 289 to 26 airlines and they now fly 5.9 million miles a week, carrying 210,000 passengers. The company said the 707 has "the best safety record of any airplane ever introduced into commercial operation."

yer, in the view Cox would stand a better chance against him in the general election.

Another theory—to which Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., subscribes—is that conservative Democrats backed Connally to be sure of beating the liberal Yarborough and now will vote for Cox. Two years ago Cox ran as a Democrat and lost to Gov. Price Daniel in the primary.

Democratic nomination once assured election in Texas, but the state now has two Republicans in Congress—Tower and Rep. Bruce Alger.

The November winner will succeed Daniel, who sought a fourth term and was eliminated in the Democrats' first primary May 5.

The Texas Election Bureau, which declared Connally the winner, estimated no more than 1,500 ballots remained to be tabulated.

Strike Halts Flights

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) —Flight control personnel in West German airports started a two-day strike for higher wages today, halting commercial air traffic throughout the country.

Military planes and commercial flights to isolated West Berlin were not affected.

Graduates

Rev. Rodenhausen continued, but "it's so much more. It's a concept," he added, explaining, "If there is one key word to our land, freedom would be it."

"But this freedom often gets us into trouble. Sometimes in our churches we split to form new fellowships, we go to court, we make a spectacle of ourselves and our great institutions because we say we are free.

"There's only one thing wrong with this concept. Freedom is only good as one becomes a slave to something, and then that something must be good. Anarchy is freedom, but it's devilish, cruel, mean and harmful," the speaker continued.

"IF I COULD give you anything that would make your life for the next 15 minutes or the next 50 years a blessing to you, the only thing I could do or say would be to become a slave to the kingdom of God. Become enraptured in Jesus and his idea and you will be free as few men have been free."

Rev. Rodenhausen noted the representatives who met in Philadelphia in 1776 argued for days over colonial differences and got nowhere. Then they prayed, he said, and history reveals there was a strange harmony among the delegates. "From this, one of the world's great documents of freedom was born."

Individual choices do change the world and they are important, the minister continued, citing the choices made by Elijah, Dr. Thomas Dooley, John Wesley, Adolph Hitler and Albert Schweitzer.

Elijah lived and worked in a bad world and believed he had failed, Rev. Rodenhausen said. But he was a lamplighter; he used his knowledge to lift people and, in particular, his civilization.

—:—

"HIS CHOICE was so important that it caused him to be a strong positive leader for the good for the next 50 years."

The Scripture lesson, II Kings 2:1-14, was read by the Rev. D. Ross Salisbury, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Charles Kampmeyer, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Luthern Church.

The invocation was asked by John N. Mostoller, minister of the First Church of Christ, and the Rev. Carl G. Beighley, pastor of the Calvary Methodist Church, gave the benediction.

THE CHOIR DIRECTED by E. King Mathews sang "One World", with baritone solo by William Krieger, and "With a Voice of Singing." It sang "Sevenfold Amen" as the choral response to the benediction.

Directed by Vincent Maola, the orchestra played "Ceremonial March for the processional, "Symphony No. 1 Themes" for the interlude and "Pomp and Circumstance" for the recessional.

lowering tariff barriers to each other's products while erecting a common tariff wall against outsiders. Commonwealth members fear their exports to Britain will lose their preferred status once the British enter the Common Market.

Officials said the two statesmen, who conferred in the Chateau de Champs about 12 miles east of Paris, had also agreed on the need for a Western European political union, including its own policy on defense.

They also discussed the general world situation, including West Berlin and U.S. efforts to find a new approach.

French officials said they did not discuss nuclear armaments or De Gaulle's determination to build France's own nuclear striking force despite U.S. objections.

Buckeye Ave. 'Smoothed' In Improvement

A large section of Buckeye Ave., once the roughest street in Wellsville, has been turned into a "super highway," Safety-Service Director Fred Baldasare said today.

Baldasare said work was completed Saturday on grading and coating Buckeye from 3rd to 10th Sts. and the remainder will be completed soon.

He said a heavy grader and operator were obtained a week ago at no cost to the city. The grader was needed to cut down the heavy bumps in the street as the city grader was not large enough to do the job.

A light coat of oil was applied to the section Friday and Saturday it was given two separate coats of MC 3 asphalt base liquid and "shot" with No. 6 slag.

The street was rolled after each coat. The emulsion was obtained from the Snyder Paving Co. of Hanoverton and the slag was from the city's stockpile.

Baldasare said he had been planning the project since December. It was set up for this month and the time table was met, he commented.

The remainder of Buckeye from 10th to 14th Sts. and from Henry Ave. to the lower end of town also will be treated.

Buckeye is paved from 14th to Henry. He said he had planned to cover the entire street in three phases, but it may be done in two.

Route 7 from city limits to city limits was covered with the street sweeper Sunday night and early this morning. Baldasare commented no motorists were found parked along the entire route and he said many residents heeded his request and swept off their sidewalks before the sweeper went by.

explained but reports in Honolulu blamed cloudy weather and possible technical difficulties.

Joint Task Force 8 had no word on when another shot will be attempted. "They want to analyze this one before they say anything further," a spokesman said.

The United States went ahead with the shot despite a Soviet government charge from Moscow Sunday that the test would "carry the nuclear arms race into outer space."

The Moscow complaint said the high-altitude blast could disrupt communications, endanger future astronaut flights and "change the weather."

A spokesman for Joint Task Force 8 said, "let them complain. They know more about these tests than we do. That's what we're trying to find out."

en floor to insure "Hampy" against starvation in his refusal to be caged.

Mrs. Howard spotted the hamster scurrying across the kitchen floor Sunday night and with the aid of a neighbor and a flashlight the animal was chased from beneath the stove and into a waiting carpet held by the housewife.

Held securely in the carpet, "Hampy" was returned to his cage quickly, and spent the night in capture to the delight of the couple's three children, Lori, Perry and Stephanie.

The hamster had escaped from its cage on Easter Sunday and had successfully obtained food placed as a lure for a makeshift trap.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What is really the distinction between "pressing" and "ironing"?

A. When pressing, you place your iron on the fabric, lift it, and place on the fabric again. When ironing, you push the iron back and forth. Pressing is used for all fabrics, ironing only for washable fabrics, also for smoothing out wrinkles and shaping a garment.

Q. How can I prevent scum from forming on my freshly-cooked starch?

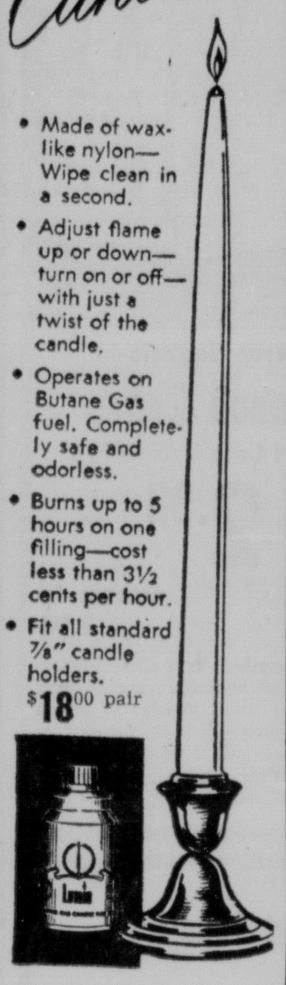

A. After cooking, sprinkle cold water liberally over it. It will prevent that scum from gathering. When ready to use, stir well.

The inspector general in charge of the investigation said he noted skid marks on the runway which indicated the pilot had his brakes on for about 500 yards. The smouldering wreckage was searched for the automatic recorder which would give a clue to the plane's final fatal seconds.

Air France said the American-built Boeing had flown in from New York only a few hours before and had been inspected before the return flight. It showed no trouble on the eastward crossing, officials said.

The death toll of 130 was the worst in a single-plane crash in aviation history — exceeding by one the number killed in a 1953 crash of a U.S. Air Force C124 Globemaster near Tokyo.

It was the fourth crash of a 707 since the big jet went into commercial service in October 1958. The Boeing Airplane Co., builders of the plane, said it has delivered 289 to 26 airlines and they now fly 5.9 million miles a week, carrying 210,000 passengers. The company said the 707 has "the best safety record of any airplane ever introduced into commercial operation."

yer, in the view Cox would stand a better chance against him in the general election.

Another theory—to which Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., subscribes—is that conservative Democrats backed Connally to be sure of beating the liberal Yarborough and now will vote for Cox. Two years ago Cox ran as a Democrat and lost to Gov. Price Daniel in the primary.

Democratic nomination once assured election in Texas, but the state now has two Republicans in Congress—Tower and Rep. Bruce Alger.

The November winner will succeed Daniel, who sought a fourth term and was eliminated in the Democrats' first primary May 5.

The Texas Election Bureau, which declared Connally the winner, estimated no more than 1,500 ballots remained to be tabulated.

Strike Halts Flights

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) —Flight control personnel in West German airports started a two-day strike for higher wages today, halting commercial air traffic throughout the country.

Military planes and commercial flights to isolated West Berlin were not affected.

Rev. Rodenhausen continued, but "it's so much more. It's a concept," he added, explaining, "If there is one key word to our land, freedom would be it."

"But this freedom often gets us into trouble. Sometimes in our churches we split to form new fellowships, we go to court, we make a spectacle of ourselves and our great institutions because we say we are free.

"There's only one thing wrong with this concept. Freedom is only good as one becomes a slave to something, and then that something must be good. Anarchy is freedom, but it's devilish, cruel, mean and harmful," the speaker continued.

"IF I COULD give you anything that would make your life for the next 15 minutes or the next 50 years a blessing to you, the only thing I could do or say would be to become a slave to the kingdom of God. Become enraptured in Jesus and his idea and you will be free as few men have been free."

Rev. Rodenhausen noted the representatives who met in Philadelphia in 1776 argued for days over colonial differences and got nowhere. Then they prayed, he said, and history reveals there was a strange harmony among the delegates. "From this, one of the world's great documents of freedom was born."

Individual choices do change the world and they are important, the minister continued, citing the choices made by Elijah, Dr. Thomas Dooley, John Wesley, Adolph Hitler and Albert Schweitzer.

Elijah lived and worked in a bad world and believed he had failed, Rev. Rodenhausen said. But he was a lamplighter; he used his knowledge to lift people and, in particular, his civilization.

—:—

"HIS CHOICE was so important that it caused him to be a strong positive leader for the good for the next 50 years."

The Scripture lesson, II Kings 2:1-14, was read by the Rev. D. Ross Salisbury, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Charles Kampmeyer, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Luthern Church.

The invocation was asked by John N. Mostoller, minister of the First Church of Christ, and the Rev. Carl G. Beighley, pastor of the Calvary Methodist Church, gave the benediction.

THE CHOIR DIRECTED by E. King Mathews sang "One World", with baritone solo by William Krieger, and "With a Voice of Singing." It sang "Sevenfold Amen" as the choral response to the benediction.

Directed by Vincent Maola, the orchestra played "Ceremonial March for the processional, "Symphony No. 1 Themes" for the interlude and "Pomp and Circumstance" for the recessional.

Officials said the two statesmen, who conferred in the Chateau de Champs about 12 miles east of Paris, had also agreed on the need for a Western European political union, including its own policy on defense.

They also discussed the general world situation, including West Berlin and U.S. efforts to find a new approach.

French officials said they did not discuss nuclear armaments or De Gaulle's determination to build France's own nuclear striking force despite U.S. objections.

Buckeye Ave. 'Smoothed' In Improvement

A large section of Buckeye Ave., once the roughest street in Wellsville, has been turned into a "super highway," Safety-Service Director Fred Baldasare said today.

Baldasare said work was completed Saturday on grading and coating Buckeye from 3rd to 10th Sts. and the remainder will be completed soon.

He said a heavy grader and operator were obtained a week ago at no cost to the city. The grader was needed to cut down the heavy bumps in the street as the city grader was not large enough to do the job.

A light coat of oil was applied to the section Friday and Saturday it was given two separate coats of MC 3 asphalt base liquid and "shot" with No. 6 slag.

The street was rolled after each coat. The emulsion was obtained from the Snyder Paving Co. of Hanoverton and the slag was from the city's stockpile.

Baldasare said he had been planning the project since December. It was set up for this month and the time table was met, he commented.

The remainder of Buckeye from 10th to 14th Sts. and from Henry Ave. to the lower end of town also will be treated.

Buckeye is paved from 14th to Henry. He said he had planned to cover the entire street in three phases, but it may be done in two.

Route 7 from city limits to city limits was covered with the street sweeper Sunday night and early this morning. Baldasare commented no motorists were found parked along the entire route and he said many residents heeded his request and swept off their sidewalks before the sweeper went by.

Joint Task Force 8 had no word on when another shot will be attempted. "They want to analyze this one before they say anything further," a spokesman said.

The United States went ahead with the shot despite a Soviet government charge from Moscow Sunday that the test would "carry the nuclear arms race into outer space."

The Moscow complaint said the high-altitude blast could disrupt communications, endanger future astronaut flights and "change the weather."

A spokesman for Joint Task Force 8 said, "let them complain. They know more about these tests than we do. That's what we're trying to find out."

en floor to insure "Hampy" against starvation in his refusal to be caged.

Mrs. Howard spotted the hamster scurrying across the kitchen floor Sunday night and with the aid of a neighbor and a flashlight the animal was chased from beneath the stove and into a waiting carpet held by the housewife.

Held securely in the carpet, "Hampy" was returned to his cage quickly, and spent the night in capture to the delight of the couple's three children, Lori, Perry and Stephanie.

The hamster had escaped from its cage on Easter Sunday and had successfully obtained food placed as a lure for a makeshift trap.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What is really the distinction between "pressing" and "ironing"?

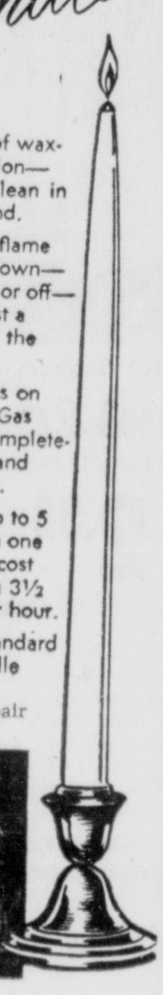

A. When pressing, you place your iron on the fabric, lift it, and place on the fabric again. When ironing, you push the iron back and forth. Pressing is used for all fabrics, ironing only for washable fabrics, also for smoothing out wrinkles and shaping a garment.

Q. How can I prevent scum from forming on my freshly-cooked starch?

A. After cooking, sprinkle cold water liberally over it. It will prevent that scum from gathering. When ready to use, stir well.

$460 Cleared For MS Drive

East Liverpool residents contributed $460 to the annual Multiple Sclerosis Hope Chest Fund Drive Friday and Saturday.

A house-to-house canvass was conducted by the Women's Civil Defense Council and Girl Scouts. Mrs. Evelyn Balser and Mrs. Ruth Curtis, co-chairmen, said the canvass was completed but the total contributions are expected to show an increase when final reports are made.

An incomplete report of the drive shows Columbiana County contributed $600, with $460 coming from East Liverpool and the remainder from Columbiana village.

George Garland of Youngstown, drive chairman for the three-county area of Columbiana, Trumbull and Mahoning, said reports from other Columbiana County cities and villages will be compiled later.

Garland said $18,215 was collected in the three-county area with 2,200 of some 4,500 volunteer workers reporting. Mahoning County contributed $11,964 and Trumbull, $5,651, he said.

Garland reported the Tru-Mah-Col Chapter in Youngstown should realize its goal of $35,000, based on the first reports. There is no deadline for the drive and volunteers may canvass homes this week if they were unable to participate Friday and Saturday, he said.

Matching headpieces completed their costumes. The maid of honor carried a cascade of yellow Shasta daisies with pink carnations and the bridesmaids carried white daisies with pink carnations.

John Devan Jr. of North Chili was best man. Ushers were Ronald Coates and Keith Coates, brothers of the bride.

The mother of the bride chose a dress of iridescent taffeta covered with nylon chiffon. Her accessories were white and her corsage was a yellow-throated orchid. The bridegroom's mother was attired in orchid taffeta brocade with white accessories and pink-throated orchid corsage.

A reception was held in the Canon Davis Hall of Sarnia.

Following a wedding trip to Northern Michigan, the newlyweds will reside in a trailer on the campus of the Roberts Wesleyan College at North Chili, where the bride is employed in the public relations office of the college. Her fingertip veil of pure silk French illusion was held in place by a Victoria pearl crown. She carried a cascade arrangement of mauve orchids, stephanotis and trailing ivy. Observing the traditions, the handkerchief of lovers lace she carried was made by Mrs. Harry Lyon, grandmother of the bridegroom.

Miss Elosia Englert of North Chili, N. Y., was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Reuter of North Chili and Miss Betty Abrams of Sarnia. They wore sheath dresses of violet faille with matching silk organza overskirts. The fitted bodices were designed with scoop necklines and elbow-length ruffled sleeves. Matching headpieces completed their costumes. The maid of honor carried a cascade of yellow Shasta daisies with pink carnations and the bridesmaids carried white daisies with pink carnations.

John Devan Jr. of North Chili was best man. Ushers were Ronald Coates and Keith Coates, brothers of the bride.

The mother of the bride chose a dress of iridescent taffeta covered with nylon chiffon. Her accessories were white and her corsage was a yellow-throated orchid. The bridegroom's mother was attired in orchid taffeta brocade with white accessories and pink-throated orchid corsage.

A reception was held in the Canon Davis Hall of Sarnia.

Following a wedding trip to Northern Michigan, the newlyweds will reside in a trailer on the campus of the Roberts Wesleyan College at North Chili, where the bride is employed in the public relations office of the college. She is a graduate of Sarnia High School and attended the college for two years.

The bridegroom was graduated from East Liverpool High School in 1958 and also attended the college for two years. He is a technician with the Gerber Baby Food Co. at Rochester, N. Y.

Cadillac

How to pay for a Cadillac—and not get one!

There are several ways that a man can pay the price of a new Cadillac car—and find himself in possession of an automobile of far less stature.

Because there are many motorists currently considering the purchase of their next car, we would like to enumerate these ways of going astray.

1. Assume that the purchase price of a new Cadillac car is higher than it actually is. (There are eleven models of other makes that this year cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac model.)

2. Fail to appreciate that the basic price of a new Cadillac includes important things that are extra on many other cars. (Including automatic transmission, power steering and power braking.)

3. Neglect to find out from a Cadillac dealer what your present car is worth in trade. (He is especially anxious this spring to welcome new owners.)

And if you take one of these detours, think of all the unique pleasures you could be missing.

There is Cadillac's styling—so majestic that it attracts attention wherever it goes.

There is Cadillac's comfort—so wonderful that every journey becomes a brief vacation.

And there is Cadillac's performance—so great that it is without rival on the world's highways.

So we suggest that you play it safe—and get all the facts from your dealer soon.

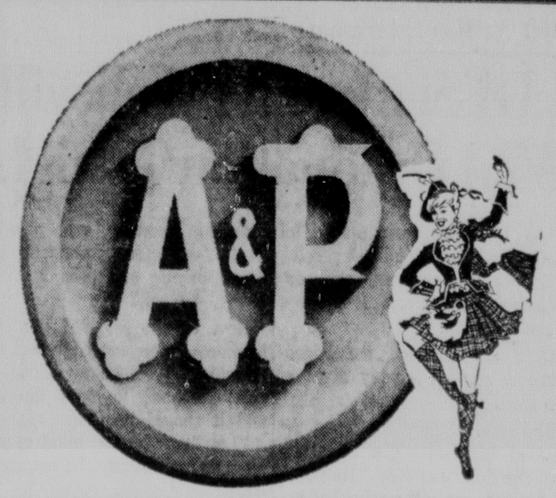

You might be closer to a Cadillac than you think.

The 118 graduating seniors of Wellsville High School will receive diplomas at commencement exercises tonight at 8:15 at Beacom Memorial gym.

Over 800 attended the baccalaureate service Sunday night at the gym.

The Rev. William Hewitt of the Central Methodist Church spoke on "The School of Life." He pointed out "we enter the school of life without our consent." Some of the required courses are physical work, temptation, judgment, reverent change and pain and suffering, he said.

Rev. Hewitt said "if life goes to pieces, man can cope with the situation if he knows God. We need someone to clear the way and it should be God."

"Let there be one mind in you, the mind of Christ," he commented.

The Rev. Arden Beck, president of the Wellsville Ministerial Association, presided. The Rev. Daniel Duerksen gave the invocation and the Rev. William Carswell the benediction.

The Rev. Bruce Davis offered prayer and the Rev. Clark Allison gave the Scripture reading.

The A Capella Choir, directed by Miss Phyllis Zimmerman, sang and J. Frederick Russell played the organ.

Miss Mary Anne Piatt, valedictorian, and Miss Mary Kay Wellington, salutatorian, will speak tonight.

The class will be presented by William Menough, high school principal and acting superintendent, and Earl Bake, Board of Education president, will present the members with their diplomas.

Christian Scientists Name New President

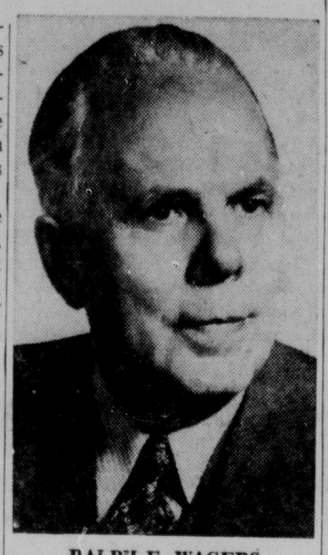

BOSTON — Gratitude for spiritual growth and progress was the keynote as Christian Scientists from many countries attended the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston this afternoon.

Uncompromising reliance on the unlimited resources of God, Spirit, opens the way to the permanent solution of every human problem, the Christian Science Board of Directors emphasized in a special message.

Bearing witness to this were incidents of spiritual healing read at the meeting. They included tuberculosis, pleurisy, diabetes, cancer and mental illness. Also reported were healings of alcoholism, broken bones, deafness, heart trouble and impaired vision.

Named president of The Mother Church for the coming year was Ralph E. Wagers of Boston and Chicago.

A native of Michigan, Wagers is a widely-known Christian Science teacher, practitioner and editor. He traveled throughout the world as a Christian Science lecturer prior to becoming associate editor of the Christian Science religious periodicals in 1959. In addition to his work as an editor, he is currently heard on the international radio series "The Bible Speaks to You".

RALPH E. WAGERS
Points To Key Challenge.

The major challenge of the hour is spiritual deficiency which would tempt men to seek their highest good in materialism, Wagers told the meeting.

William Milford Correll of Cleveland was named to the Board of Lectureship during the meeting.

District's Strawberry Crop Seen Good Despite Weather

The strawberry crop in Northeastern Ohio will be good, despite dry weather, and the quality of the locally-grown berries is "very good," Richard W. Skinner, market information agent with the Agriculture Extension Service in Canfield, said today.

Area markets will begin to have homegrown strawberries on their shelves in volume this week. Many growers started picking last week. However it is usually a week after harvest begins before the stores have strawberries in volume.

The season is about two weeks earlier than last year when the season was delayed because of the extreme cool weather. The local season will last approximately three weeks or until sometime during the week of June 17.

If you plan to freeze strawberries, you will want to do so early in the week of June 10 as this will probably be the time when the berries will be most plentiful.

Latest forecasts indicate that fresh vegetables will be more plentiful than originally expected. Seasonally plentiful at this time are good supplies of asparagus and Ohio greenhouse tomatoes.

Field grown tomatoes from Texas, Florida and California are near their peak in supply. In the weeks ahead look for larger supplies of green beans, beets, sweet corn and cucumbers.

Cabbage prices remain higher than normal, but should drop as supplies from the late spring crop become available. Harvest is expected to begin in Southeastern Ohio by mid-June.

Lettuce prices continue moderately high as a result of a much smaller crop in Arizona and California, the principal suppliers at this time. As production areas shift, the price situation may change.

In the canned goods section of your favorite store look for fruit cocktail and pears to be featured. Stocks of both are considerably greater than last year.

Continuance Granted On Man's Sentencing

Sentencing of Donald McCune, 923 Pan Ave., Chester, on a non-support charge was continued today until June 29 by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff to permit him to make arrangements to pay his wife for the support of two minor children.

Judge Chertoff continued McCune's bond of $250. He pleaded guilty to the charge filed by his wife, Mrs. Carol McCune of East Liverpool.

McCune was arraigned Friday but requested a continuance to obtain counsel. However, he appeared this morning without an attorney.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you've printed several letters from women who are pulling the hair out of their heads because their retired husbands are "in the way." The common complaint seems to be that these women can't stand to have the men around the house.

What is a retired man supposed to do—hang himself in the attic on his 65th birthday so he won't interfere with his wife's club activities?

Some men don't have a dozen hobbies. They just want to stay at home and putter around. They may find pleasure in yard work, or reading, or listening to the radio or TV. Is this a crime?

And what's so terrible about a husband who enjoys marketing with his wife?

Too many women are pushing their retired husbands into early graves these days because they make them feel like burdens.

After a lifetime of work a man is entitled to stay at home and do nothing if he wants to. A good wife will let him spend his retired years as he chooses.—WIFE.

Private Domain

Dear Ann: Our 9-year-old son, John, has a room of his own keep his door closed. It is virtually impossible to clean his room because he collects everything under the sun.

Yesterday I got fed up with all the junk. My mother is coming to visit and I want our house to be orderly—ALL of it. So I threw out everything—the stones, rocks, jars of dirt from different states, twigs and favors from parties he attended two years ago.

When John came home he was furious. He ran to the trash cans to see if he could save anything. Fortunately everything had been hauled away. He threatened to run away from home.

When my husband came from work John rushed to the door and told him what I had done. My husband took the boy's side and I was shocked.

Please help me present my side. Men don't understand that orderliness is important to a woman.—JUNK HATER.

-:-

...Dear Junk Hater: Sorry.... Mother, you'll get NO support from me. Twigs, stones, jars of dirt and old party favors are as important to a 9-year-old boy as orderliness is to some women.

You had no right to throw out your son's precious belongings. He feels you have invaded his private domain and robbed him of his rights. And he is correct.

Apologize to the boy. Tell him you will not interfere with his collections in the future. And keep his door shut if you can't bear to see the mess.

Riders Prerogative

Dear Ann: People come to you with problems large and small. This one is small but I hope you'll find time to answer it.

I enjoy reading the morning paper on my way to work. Usually some well-meaning but thoughtless jerk will sit beside me and start a conversation. I find myself indulging in small talk just to be polite. Some mornings I never get to my paper and it burns me up.

If you can suggest a tactful way to cut off a conversation or to discourage friendly characters from starting one, I'd be grateful—and so would millions of other commuters. Thanks in advance.—MR. 7:55.

Dear Mr.; Don't let anything stand between you and your paper. Every person has the right to be left alone and there's nothing rude about insisting on that right.

If some insensitive hulk starts up a conversation simply say, "You MUST read this," then hand him a part of the paper. When you've finished with your section, trade with him.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Village Mayors Slate Tax Talk With DiSalle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Village Mayors Association has planned a meeting with Gov. Michael V. DiSalle as part of the group's campaign to gain some of the city taxes levied on wages of village residents employed in cities.

The announcement of the Statehouse meeting came Sunday during a meeting of the association. The group, which split from the city city-dominated Ohio Mayors Association, aims at getting state legislative action toward tax rebates to the villages.

The village mayors' president, Robert W. Akron of Cardington, said the group also plans to ask township and county officials to join in the effort to obtain some of the tax money.

The next meeting of the organization is set for July 15 in Cardington.

Father Puzzled As Youth Deserts North Korea Post

CLEVELAND (AP)—George O. Abshier of suburban Garfield Heights is puzzled over why his 18-year-old son would desert his post with the Army in South Korea and go over to the Communist territory.

"He liked the Army," Abshier said Sunday. "Why would he desert?"

The father has been informed by the Defense Department that his son, Pvt. Larry Abshier, apparently deserted his post in South Korea last week and was last seen running toward the North Korean lines.

"Larry never did write very often," his father said, explaining he last heard from the boy around Christmas. "He said he was very busy with normal Army duties.

"Oh, he complained about the cold weather in Korea and the mountains, but he liked the Army so well. He even told me he wanted to make the service a career.

"He was doing reconnaissance work near the border. At least that is what I understand from the Army telegram. So who can tell why he ran into North Korea."

The army said Pvt. Abshier had been assigned to guard duty at the demilitarized zone and was last seen May 28 running toward Communist territory by his security outpost leader. He ignored calls to return, the Army said.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you've printed several letters from women who are pulling the hair out of their heads because their retired husbands are "in the way." The common complaint seems to be that these women can't stand to have the men around the house.

What is a retired man supposed to do—hang himself in the attic on his 65th birthday so he won't interfere with his wife's club activities?

Some men don't have a dozen hobbies. They just want to stay at home and putter around. They may find pleasure in yard work, or reading, or listening to the radio or TV. Is this a crime?

And what's so terrible about a husband who enjoys marketing with his wife?

Too many women are pushing their retired husbands into early graves these days because they make them feel like burdens.

After a lifetime of work a man is entitled to stay at home and do nothing if he wants to. A good wife will let him spend his retired years as he chooses.—WIFE.

Private Domain

Dear Ann: Our 9-year-old son, John, has a room of his own keep his door closed. It is virtually impossible to clean his room because he collects everything under the sun.

Yesterday I got fed up with all the junk. My mother is coming to visit and I want our house to be orderly—ALL of it. So I threw out everything—the stones, rocks, jars of dirt from different states, twigs and favors from parties he attended two years ago.

When John came home he was furious. He ran to the trash cans to see if he could save anything. Fortunately everything had been hauled away. He threatened to run away from home.

When my husband came from work John rushed to the door and told him what I had done. My husband took the boy's side and I was shocked.

Please help me present my side. Men don't understand that orderliness is important to a woman.—JUNK HATER.

-:-

...Dear Junk Hater: Sorry.... Mother, you'll get NO support from me. Twigs, stones, jars of dirt and old party favors are as important to a 9-year-old boy as orderliness is to some women.

You had no right to throw out your son's precious belongings. He feels you have invaded his private domain and robbed him of his rights. And he is correct.

Apologize to the boy. Tell him you will not interfere with his collections in the future. And keep his door shut if you can't bear to see the mess.

Riders Prerogative

Dear Ann: People come to you with problems large and small. This one is small but I hope you'll find time to answer it.

I enjoy reading the morning paper on my way to work. Usually some well-meaning but thoughtless jerk will sit beside me and start a conversation. I find myself indulging in small talk just to be polite. Some mornings I never get to my paper and it burns me up.

If you can suggest a tactful way to cut off a conversation or to discourage friendly characters from starting one, I'd be grateful—and so would millions of other commuters. Thanks in advance.—MR. 7:55.

Dear Mr.; Don't let anything stand between you and your paper. Every person has the right to be left alone and there's nothing rude about insisting on that right.

If some insensitive hulk starts up a conversation simply say, "You MUST read this," then hand him a part of the paper. When you've finished with your section, trade with him.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Board Meeting Slated

EAST PALESTINE — Action on hiring a new high school principal may be taken at a meeting of the Board of Education tonight. S. H. Laber, former principal, was named superintendent last week when the board failed to renew the contract of T. R. Hersh, who had served for 28 years.

Thurmond Asks Get-Tough Plan Against Russians

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The United States must adopt a get tough policy and make a determined effort to win the cold war, Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S. C., and four other speakers said here Sunday night.

The five took part in a Victory over Communism rally sponsored by the Young Americans for Freedom of Ohio. The meeting attracted 1,000 persons.

Thurmond charged that the U.S. has a no-win policy in the struggle with communism. He said the policy "is not to lose, but we are afraid we might."

Instead, the southern Democrat said the nation must refuse to negotiate everytime the Communists wants to talk, call their bluffs and exert direct pressure of its own in the cold war.

Instead of the no - win policy, Thurmond presented a 12 - point program to put the pressure on the Communists. It included a blockade of Cuba; halting all trade and foreign aid with Communist countries; a strong, spend-as-we-go economy; maintain the strongest military in the world and reappraise the enemy.

Also speaking at the rally were M. Stanton Evans, editor of the Indianapolis News; State Sen. Charles Fry, R-Springfield; Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, and former FBI counterspy Herb Philbrick.

Music Figure Claimed

Inventories Of Steel Face Sharp Slash

CLEVELAND (AP)—Steel Magazine says a survey of purchasing agents indicates that inventories of steel will be trimmed sharply in the next three months.

The survey shows inventories will decline at the fastest pace since the liquidation in late 1960, the trade publication said, noting that 38 per cent of the purchasing agents — "the highest percentage in many months"—report overstocks on a wide variety of mill products.

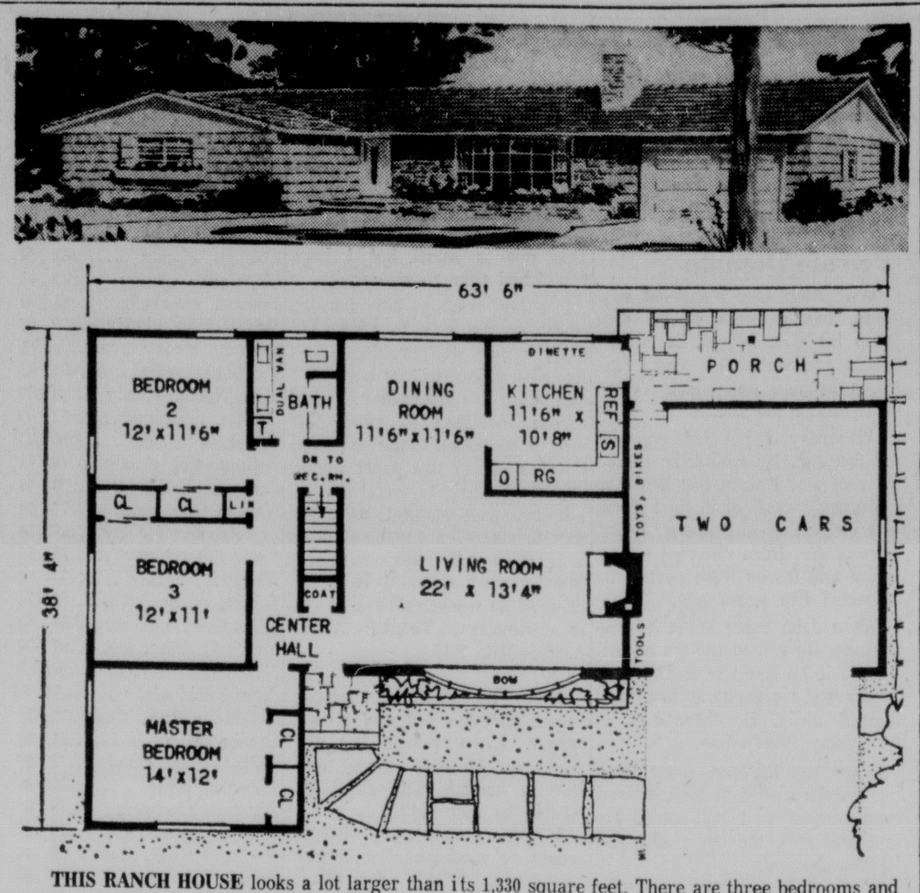

Although the downtrend in steelmaking operations is continuing, Steel predicted production this year probably will be the highest in five years. "It won't be 115 million tons—as some enthusiasts predicted last December," Steel said, "and it may not reach 110 million, but it's likely to be in the range of 100 million to 105 million tons vs. 98 million tons in 1961."

At present, the durable goods sector is one of the few bright spots in an otherwise dull market, Steel said. "New car sales in the middle third of May were the largest for the period since 1955. Third quarter production schedules call for 1.2 million cars, and, tentatively, it looks like 1.8 million cars could be built in the October - December period. That pace would push 1962 production to 6.7 million units."

For this week ingot production will fall below the 1.62 million tons estimated for last week, Steel said. Last week's output was down 1.6 per cent from the preceding week.

Steel reported scrap prices also declined last week, with No. 1 heavy melting grade down $1.16 a gross ton to $25.17.

The original Ku Klux Klan was founded in 1866.

THIS RANCH HOUSE looks a lot larger than its 1,330 square feet. There are three bedrooms and a smart double lavatory bath. A Pattern Can Add Space While Creating Camouflage

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Pattern can make a room look larger, though the old-fashioned decorating idea always has been to the contrary.

Interior designer John Sheehan of New York used pattern everywhere in a small room, 8 feet by 9 feet, and the effect was to make the room seem larger.

"You forget about the physical dimensions of the room, as psychologically your thoughts are diverted to the pleasant sensation of pattern," he points out.

His original reasons for putting the pattern on the ceiling, walls, chests and even the window shade in the child's room were even more practical.

"I wanted to offset the architectural drawbacks — haphazard beams, off - center windows and an air conditioner that jutted into the room. Pattern is useful where you want to conceal structural impediments.

"But as it turned out the room looks larger, and we were able to use even more furniture than usual in a small room without making it look crowded," he says.

The pattern he used is the china pattern that he had color coordinated in a collection of wallpapers and fabrics.

The window shades of vinyl impregnated cotton carry the same tangerine and yellow pattern on white. A pair of unpainted chests are covered with the easily scrubbed vinyl. Bases and legs of the chests are painted orange to tie in with the carpet of orange, yellow and wood-tone tweed, also designed by Sheehan.

The carpet is wall-to-wall, offering cushion privileges to toddlers, but it is bound so that it can be removed for cleaning.

"The furniture sort of fell into place. It didn't look boxy as it might have if it had been painted a solid color and used in such a small room. Children like to look at patterns, and everyone is growing tired of the sterile all-white nursery or pink and blue," Sheehan explains.

There are wood contrasts in the room which offer traditional softening effects. Maple and pine are found in an Early American dropleaf table, Early American high chair and Boston rocker.

An abstract collage on the wall is a melange of sunny daffodil yellows, warm tangerine tones and beiges.

Another good point about this little nursery is that it can be used by girl or boy, so that it can be planned in advance of the event. It can be used too for many years, unlike many rooms that are planned strictly for babies.

Jobless Aid Set For Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A federal program for retraining the jobless for other work starts July 1 in the hard-hit Youngstown area.

A. E. McCully, district Ohio State Employment Service (OSES) supervisor, estimates at least 15,000 are unemployed in the area, with another 3,000 working less than 40 hours weekly.

McCully said completion of a recent study of manpower needs for the Youngstown-Warren area will permit the retraining program to start here before it does in other Ohio communities. Dr. Howard W. Jones, president of Youngstown University, is in charge of the study.

Job seekers may apply for retraining this week at OSES offices in Youngstown and Warren, according to McCully.

Eligible for the program are youths 16-21 years old who are jobless or under-employed. They must show learning aptitude, head a family or household, and have at least three years' work experience.

McCully said the retaining would include vocational courses in the public schools and on - the - job training in business concerns.

Tips Are Offered On Installing Of Aluminum Tiles

Question: We have decided to put up aluminum tiles on the walls of our bathroom.

Some time ago we looked over different types of these tiles and finally decided on the kind that has a copper-color finish.

We asked the dealer whether it was necessary to apply anything to the plaster walls before putting on the mastic and tiles. He suggested shellac.

We didn't get the tiles at that time, but are ready to do so now. Another dealer says the shellac is not necessary. Who is right?

Answer: It depends on the kind of mastic being used. For the kind of tiles you are using, there is a mastic with an oil base and one with a resin base.

With the oil base mastic, shellacking the walls usually is recommended. With the resin base mastic, no shellac is necessary.

However, it seems to me that you should follow the advice of the dealer from whom the tiles are being purchased.

But you can doublecheck his advice by reading the directions on the mastic container. If they agree with what he says, fine. If not, you'd better start asking him some questions.

Roofers Go On Strike In Northeastern Ohio

CLEVELAND (AP) — Roofers went on strike today against contractors in 10 Northeastern Ohio counties.

"No contract, no work," said John J. Kane, business agent of Composite Roofers Local 44. The local represents 300 workers in the 10-county area.

Kane said the roofers had been working without a contract since May 1961 while negotiations continued on an agreement to replace the one that expired at that time. Members of the local voted last week to give the contractors a week's notice, and time ran out on that notice this morning, Kane said.

Automation is reported to be a major issue, but Kane said this was only one of several issues involved.

Spurt Shown In Buying Of 'Old Homes'

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The demand for new homes is reasonably predictable.

Housing authorities make periodic forecasts of the public's interest in new houses by taking into account a number of factors, not the least of which is the general economic condition of the country.

Far less predictable is the demand for existing homes. There are various theories on the relationship between the sales of new and old homes, but they do not always stand the test of reality.

It is interesting to note, for example, that the demand for new homes is about the same now as it was last year.

Yet the demand for existing houses is on the upswing. According to a survey of realtors around the country, special interest is being shown in older, roomier houses in well-established neighborhoods.

If you were to make a chart on the preferences for old, large houses over the years, it would look like a series of hills and valleys.

Every so often the public becomes aware, once again, of the advantages of a spacious house and a neighborhood whose character has remained unchanged for a long period of time.

Space is a valuable commodity when there is a growing family. And a well-established neighborhood makes it improbable that unsatisfactory changes will occur or that new assessments will be made.

The proponents of new houses say that old, large houses mean bigger maintenance costs.

They maintain, too, that there are many advantages to newer neighborhoods. People starting out together, facing and solving similar problems, have common bonds which make for a friendlier, more interesting community.

This seeming difference of opinion about the relative merits of new or old houses is actually nothing more than a difference of needs.

Choices should be made on the basis of what is best for the family rather than preconceived notions that a new house or an old house is always better.

Fortunately for the sellers of both types of homes, family needs vary enough so that a market always exists for ali concerned.

Illness Claims Clem McCarthy, Race Announcer

NEW YORK (AP) — Clem McCarthy, 79, horse race and prize fight announcer, died today in a nursing home.

McCarthy had been ill since 1956. On Derby Day, 1957, he was injured when an automobile in which he was a passenger was in an accident in the Bronx.

McCarthy left no relatives. He died in the Dresden Madison nursing home.

He started announcing in 1927 when Arlington Park race track in Chicago introduced a public address system. He broadcast thousands of races over the loudspeaker and on radio.

Over the years he called only one winner incorrectly. That was in the 1947 Preakness, when Faultless closed with a rush and won. McCarthy called Jet Pilot, which had been leading, and the jockey was wearing silks with colors similar to Faultless' rider. McCarthy realized his error immediately and corrected himself on the air.

His wife, former actress Vina Smith, died in 1949.

McCarthy was born near Rochester, N.Y., and received his early schooling in many parts of the country, traveling with his family. His father was an Irish horse dealer and auctioneer.

He met all the famous owners of race horses and jockeys when he was a boy and gave up an ambition to be a jockey on the advice of the great jockey Tod Sloan.

He followed his father's footsteps into the horse and cattle auction ring, then shifted over to the life of a form-chart reporter.

He was at Arlington Park when a public address system was installed and McCarthy stepped up to the microphone and into a new career.

Thurmond Asks Get-Tough Plan Against Russians

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The United States must adopt a get tough policy and make a determined effort to win the cold war, Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S. C., and four other speakers said here Sunday night.

The five took part in a Victory over Communism rally sponsored by the Young Americans for Freedom of Ohio. The meeting attracted 1,000 persons.

Thurmond charged that the U.S. has a no-win policy in the struggle with communism. He said the policy "is not to lose, but we are afraid we might."

Instead, the southern Democrat said the nation must refuse to negotiate everytime the Communists wants to talk, call their bluffs and exert direct pressure of its own in the cold war.

Instead of the no - win policy, Thurmond presented a 12 - point program to put the pressure on the Communists. It included a blockade of Cuba; halting all trade and foreign aid with Communist countries; a strong, spend-as-we-go economy; maintain the strongest military in the world and reappraise the enemy.

Also speaking at the rally were M. Stanton Evans, editor of the Indianapolis News; State Sen. Charles Fry, R-Springfield; Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, and former FBI counterspy Herb Philbrick.

Inventories Of Steel Face Sharp Slash

CLEVELAND (AP)—Steel Magazine says a survey of purchasing agents indicates that inventories of steel will be trimmed sharply in the next three months.

The survey shows inventories will decline at the fastest pace since the liquidation in late 1960, the trade publication said, noting that 38 per cent of the purchasing agents — "the highest percentage in many months"—report overstocks on a wide variety of mill products.

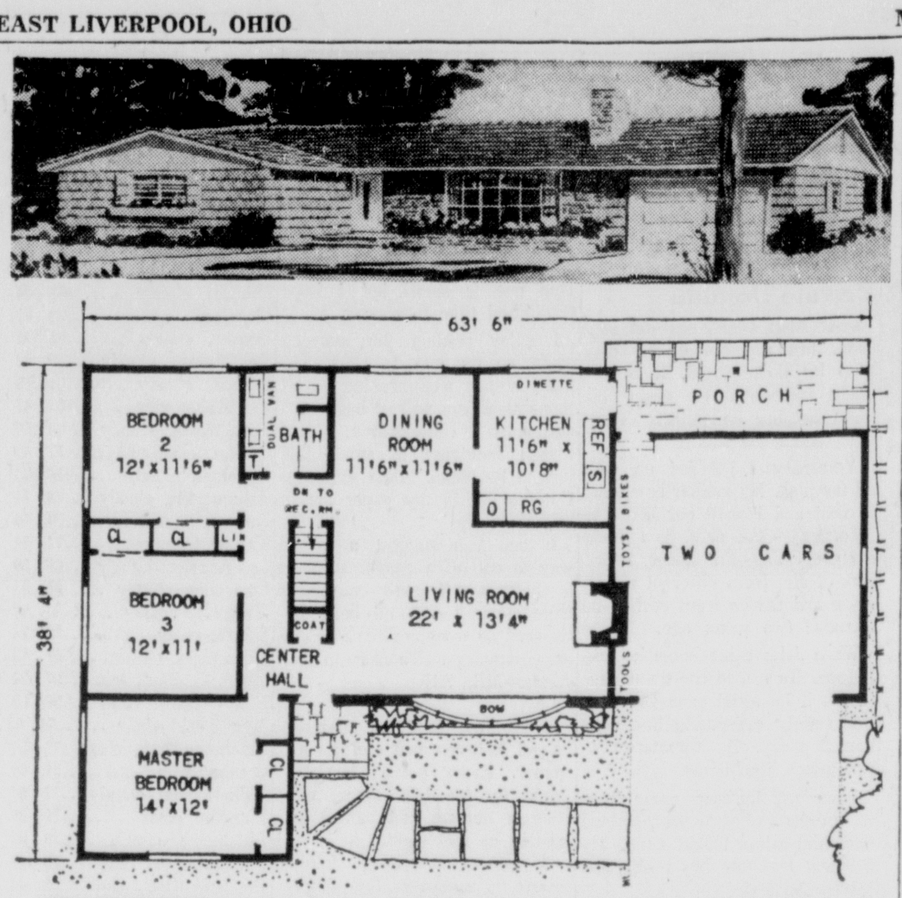

Although the downtrend in steelmaking operations is continuing, Steel predicted production this year probably will be the highest in five years. "It won't be 115 million tons—as some enthusiasts predicted last December," Steel said, "and it may not reach 110 million, but it's likely to be in the range of 100 million to 105 million tons vs. 98 million tons in 1961."

At present, the durable goods sector is one of the few bright spots in an otherwise dull market, Steel said. "New car sales in the middle third of May were the largest for the period since 1955. Third quarter production schedules call for 1.2 million cars, and, tentatively, it looks like 1.8 million cars could be built in the October - December period. That pace would push 1962 production to 6.7 million units."

For this week ingot production will fall below the 1.62 million tons estimated for last week, Steel said. Last week's output was down 1.6 per cent from the preceding week.

Steel reported scrap prices also declined last week, with No. 1 heavy melting grade down $1.16 a gross ton to $25.17.

A Pattern Can Add Space While Creating Camouflage

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Pattern can make a room look larger, though the old-fashioned decorating idea always has been to the contrary.

Interior designer John Sheehan of New York used pattern everywhere in a small room, 8 feet by 9 feet, and the effect was to make the room seem larger.

"You forget about the physical dimensions of the room, as psychologically your thoughts are diverted to the pleasant sensation of pattern," he points out.

His original reasons for putting the pattern on the ceiling, walls, chests and even the window shade in the child's room were even more practical.

"I wanted to offset the architectural drawbacks — haphazard beams, off - center windows and an air conditioner that jutted into the room. Pattern is useful where you want to conceal structural impediments.

"But as it turned out the room looks larger, and we were able to use even more furniture than usual in a small room without making it look crowded," he says.

The pattern he used is the china pattern that he had color coordinated in a collection of wallpapers and fabrics.

The window shades of vinyl impregnated cotton carry the same tangerine and yellow pattern on white. A pair of unpainted chests are covered with the easily scrubbed vinyl. Bases and legs of the chests are painted orange to tie in with the carpet of orange, yellow and wood-tone tweed, also designed by Sheehan.

The carpet is wall-to-wall, offering cushion privileges to toddlers, but it is bound so that it can be removed for cleaning.

"The furniture sort of fell into place. It didn't look boxy as it might have if it had been painted a solid color and used in such a small room. Children like to look at patterns, and everyone is growing tired of the sterile all-white nursery or pink and blue," Sheehan explains.

There are wood contrasts in the room which offer traditional softening effects. Maple and pine are found in an Early American dropleaf table, Early American high chair and Boston rocker.

An abstract collage on the wall is a melange of sunny daffodil yellows, warm tangerine tones and beiges.

Another good point about this little nursery is that it can be used by girl or boy, so that it can be planned in advance of the event. It can be used too for many years, unlike many rooms that are planned strictly for babies.

Jobless Aid Set For Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A federal program for retraining the jobless for other work starts July 1 in the hard-hit Youngstown area.

A. E. McCully, district Ohio State Employment Service (OSES) supervisor, estimates at least 15,000 are unemployed in the area, with another 3,000 working less than 40 hours weekly.

McCully said completion of a recent study of manpower needs for the Youngstown-Warren area will permit the retraining program to start here before it does in other Ohio communities. Dr. Howard W. Jones, president of Youngstown University, is in charge of the study.

Job seekers may apply for retraining this week at OSES offices in Youngstown and Warren, according to McCully.

Eligible for the program are youths 16-21 years old who are jobless or under-employed. They must show learning aptitude, head a family or household, and have at least three years' work experience.

McCully said the retaining would include vocational courses in the public schools and on - the - job training in business concerns.

Storage Shed Can Be Joined With A Fence

PORTLAND, Ore. — A gardener's best friend might be a storage fence.

What is a storage fence? It is merely a storage shed which is attached to a fence and designed so that its style blends with that of the fence. The two then appear as a single unit.

The storage portion of the fence is tailored to hold all manner of gardening equipment from the power mower to flower pots. It should be set right on the ground to make it easier to wheel heavy equipment in and out.

With that in mind, a good location for the storage unit is close to the house where a paved garden walk or the patio can be extended to form a floor for the shed.

For its style, the most simple thing is best. Plan a box structure with a slanted, shingle roof which will drain to the back. If needed, add a down spout to carry rain water away from the structure and into the yard's drainage field.

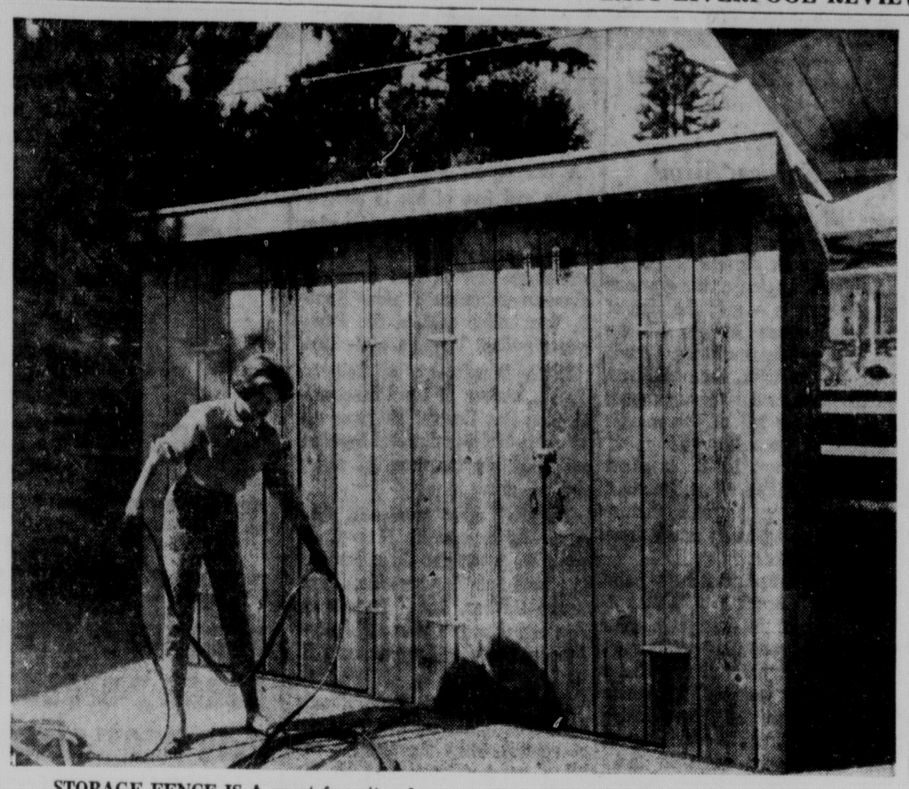

Framing members can be utility grade Douglas fir 2x4s. Lay building paper over the outside of the 2x4s for frost-proofing, then side it with either fir or western red cedar.

It's a good idea to use a vertical board pattern for the siding because matching doors are more easily constructed with verical boards than with horizontal.

Tongue-and-groove or channel siding would be ideal for the purpose. If adding the storage unit to an existing fence, be sure to match the texture and finish of the siding material to the fence.

If you start from scratch, consider using rough cedar or fir for the entire structure and letting the wood weather naturally to a silver grey. This not only eliminates future maintenance, but also creates a handsome unit which complements the coloring of plant materials in the garden.

Inside the storage shed, screw hooks into the exposed 2x4s. Here you can hang small, lightweight tools, keeping them neat and easy to find. If shelves are needed, mount them, too, on the 2x4s using ordinary metal brackets.

STORAGE FENCE IS A great favorite of any gardner. This one is framed with Douglas fir 2x4s, has siding of rough-sawn, silvered western red cedar which blends beautifully into yard's greenery. Doors swing wide to allow easy passage of lawn mower, wheelbarrow, other garden tools. Building paper lines interior to keep frost out.

Chinese Foods Getting Popular

FLEMINGTON, N. J. (AP) — In the heart of a rich farming area noted for its corn, wheat and oats, William Wing raises such unlikely crops as Chinese cabbage, Oriental melons, lo bok, bok choy, kohlrabi and Chinese radishes.

The American - born Wing thinks the fact that 70 per cent of all Chinese foods are vegetables in one reason Chinese food has been gaining in popularity. "Today, there is a Chinese restaurant for every diner that you see. The food is especially popular among people who are calorie conscious."

Whie supplying vegetables to leading Chinese restaurants in New York and Philadelphia, Wing has some advice for housewives who like to try their hand at cooking Chinese food: "Please don't overcook them or the flavor will be lost."

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Patience Encourages Baby's Talk

The most important thing we can do to cause the baby to want to talk and to help him grow well in speech is to provide him with a calm, cheerful, loving atmosphere. The mother's quiet voice and tender ways as she speaks to the infant only a few months old, her smiles at him as he coos, babbles and otherwise responds with pleasure, are contributing to his deveopment of speech. Sometimes the mother wisely imitates his sounds as well as she can, especially after he has imitated some sounds she makes. And when, by and by, he makes some sounds which she suspects are words, her gentle imitation of them can be very effective. It's fine also if the father and other persons with this child do likewise.

Dr. Garry Meyers

FROM THE BABY'S early months, the wise mother sings to him, says nursery rhymes to him and quietly talks to him about what she is doing for him or with him. This mother does not urge him to say these words after her. When he chooses on his own accord to do so, however, she pats or cuddles him and smiles approvingly.

As soon as this child will look at a picture for a few moments, she begins to read to him, and does so more and more as he grows older.

It's when the youngster doesn't seem to try to imitate the sounds or words the mother makes as early as she believes he should, that she may start urging him to talk, not only withdrawing her gentle, smiling, lovely ways, but actually betraying disappointment and anger in her voice and demeanor.

Or if the child has said only a few words, adding no more for some days, communicating with her only in grunts and gestures, she may incline to substitute angry words and ways for loving gentle ones.

SOME PARENTS suppose that if they refuse to do what the child asks them with gestures or grunts, he will be forced to speak. While this might work occasionally, it usually doesn't, but causes the child to grow less likely to speak conventionally.

If your child seems very slow in acquiring speech, it might be well to have his hearing checked. Even if his hearing is not good and needs the attention of a hearing or speech expert, he still needs more of your tender, quiet patience and loving.

Usually the finest thing to do for the child developing speech late or sowly is to read to him. Also his playing freely with other children near his age may help.

My bulletins, "Why Read to Baby and Young Child" and "Your Child's Speech," may be had by sending a self - addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Close Harmony Exists In Family

BLOOMFIELD, N. J. (AP) — The Edward J. Marsh family has turned the old - fashioned barbershop quartet into a five - man operation — four of whom are women.

Mr. and Mrs. Marsh and their three daughters — Mary Rose, 22, Bernadette, 15, and Melody, 10 — have been singing barber shop harmony for 13 years, with the girls joining the group as they become old enough.

Known as the "MarshMellows," they sing as church, social and civic affairs on a purely amateur basis.

"If we ever become professionals, it would spoil the fun," said Mrs. Marsh, who studied violin and is the only one with a formal musical background. "The children have never been forced to sing. When they don't feel like it, or if they have other appointments, nobody forces them."

Crash Driver Fined, Jailed

A Smiths Ferry motorist drew a five-day jail term and a fine of $200 and costs today in Municipal Court when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Donald McDole, 52, drew the penalty from Judge Samuel M. Chertoff as the aftermath of a collision Friday afternoon at W. 6th St. and Dresden Ave. when his car struck the rear of a halted auto.

McDole's Pennsylvania operator's permit will be forwarded to Harrisburg, the judge said. Police also listed McDole's address as 1702 Alpha St.

Robert M. Rudy of Wellsville R. D. 1 was fined $5 and costs for pleading guilty to crashing a traffic signal at E. 3rd St. and Broadway Thursday afternoon.

Paul E. Mosser, 37, of 108 W. Center Ln. drew a similar penalty, but the fine was suspended on payment of costs, after he admitted crashing a light at Pennsylvania Ave. and Elizabeth St. Saturday night.

Linda Sue Fitzsimmons of Rogers R. D. 1 is due for a hearing Friday at 9 a. m. on a speeding charge filed by the State Highway Patrol, alleging she traveled 85 miles an hour early Sunday morning in a 50-mile zone on Route 7.

Norse Churches Stress Durability Of Wood Framing

How many years can a house with wood framing and siding last?

Centuries, says the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, which points to Norway's stave churches as living examples of wood's durability.

The stave churches were built around 1200 A.D., yet today they are in perfect condition. The churches are of highly ornamental timber construction. Ancient craftsmen hewed and fitted the supporting beams and posts by hand, using simple tools, and the job was so perfect that joints are completely sound after seven and a half centuries.

The design of the stave churches is not simple. From the exterior, their many-tiered roofs faintly resemble a pagoda, while their interior might be called forerunners of the arched and vaulted Gothic styling that was to dominate European architecture in succeeding centuries.

Intricate carving characterizes the structural members of the Norwegian stave churches, for their posts and beams were considered integral parts of the building's decoration. Even their roof and siding shingles were highly ornamental, often carved to simulate leaves.

Extreme climatic conditions have weather-bleached these exquisite buildings to dull silver in hue, but the harsh Nordic winters have not succeeded in destroying their strength and beauty.

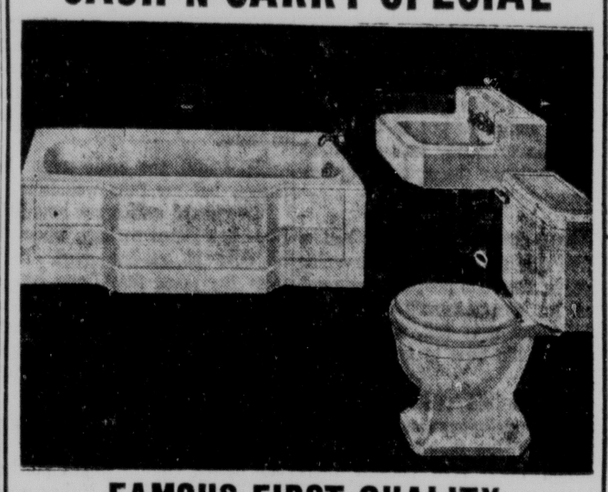

Home builders of today can emulate the lasting craftsmanship of ancient Norway by choosing the proper woods to do the job.

Storage Shed Can Be Joined With A Fence

PORTLAND, Ore. — A gardener's best friend might be a storage fence.

What is a storage fence? It is merely a storage shed which is attached to a fence and designed so that its style blends with that of the fence. The two then appear as a single unit.

The storage portion of the fence is tailored to hold all manner of gardening equipment from the power mower to flower pots. It should be set right on the ground to make it easier to wheel heavy equipment in and out.

With that in mind, a good location for the storage unit is close to the house where a paved garden walk or the patio can be extended to form a floor for the shed.

For its style, the most simple thing is best. Plan a box structure with a slanted, shingle roof which will drain to the back. If needed, add a down spout to carry rain water away from the structure and into the yard's drainage field.

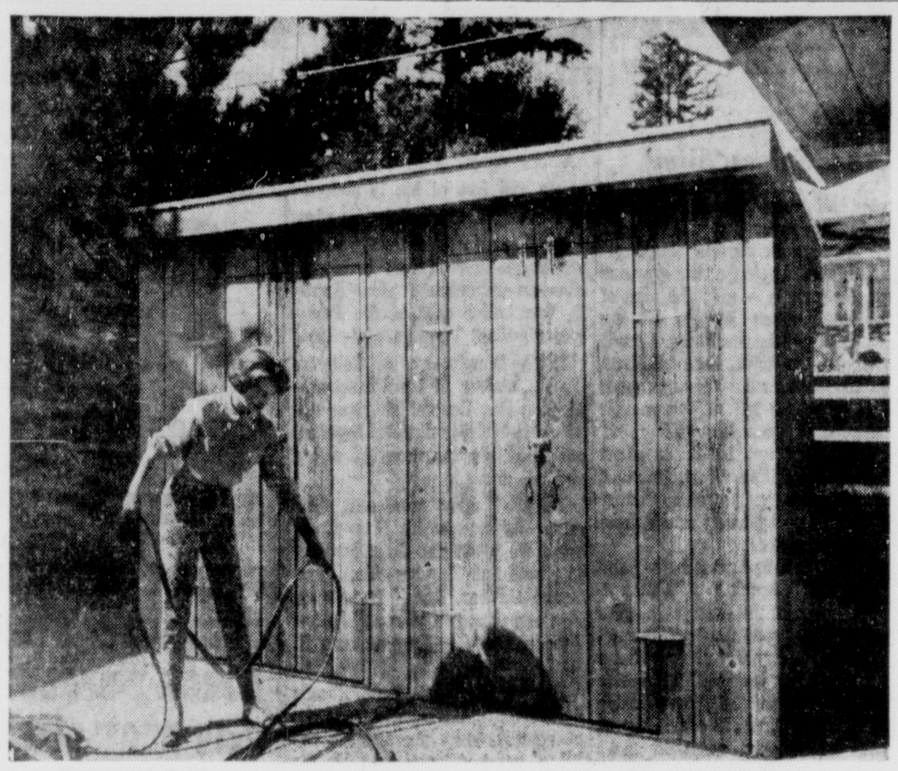

Framing members can be utility grade Douglas fir 2x4s. Lay building paper over the outside of the 2x4s for frost-proofing, then side it with either fir or western red cedar.

It's a good idea to use a vertical board pattern for the siding because matching doors are more easily constructed with verical boards than with horizontal.

Tongue-and-groove or channel siding would be ideal for the purpose. If adding the storage unit to an existing fence, be sure to match the texture and finish of the siding material to the fence.

If you start from scratch, consider using rough cedar or fir for the entire structure and letting the wood weather naturally to a silver grey. This not only eliminates future maintenance, but also creates a handsome unit which complements the coloring of plant materials in the garden.

Inside the storage shed, screw hooks into the exposed 2x4s. Here you can hang small, lightweight tools, keeping them neat and easy to find. If shelves are needed, mount them, too, on the 2x4s using ordinary metal brackets.

STORAGE FENCE IS A great favorite of any gardner. This one is framed with Douglas fir 2x4s, has siding of rough-sawn, silvered western red cedar which blends beautifully into yard's greenery. Doors swing wide to allow easy passage of lawn mower, wheelbarrow, other garden tools. Building paper lines interior to keep frost out.

Chinese Foods Getting Popular

FLEMINGTON, N. J. (AP) — In the heart of a rich farming area noted for its corn, wheat and oats, William Wing raises such unlikely crops as Chinese cabbage, Oriental melons, lo bok, bok choy, kohlrabi and Chinese radishes.

The American - born Wing thinks the fact that 70 per cent of all Chinese foods are vegetables in one reason Chinese food has been gaining in popularity. "Today, there is a Chinese restaurant for every diner that you see. The food is especially popular among people who are calorie conscious."

Whie supplying vegetables to leading Chinese restaurants in New York and Philadelphia, Wing has some advice for housewives who like to try their hand at cooking Chinese food: "Please don't overcook them or the flavor will be lost."

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Patience Encourages Baby's Talk

The most important thing we can do to cause the baby to want to talk and to help him grow well in speech is to provide him with a calm, cheerful, loving atmosphere. The mother's quiet voice and tender ways as she speaks to the infant only a few months old, her smiles at him as he coos, babbles and otherwise responds with pleasure, are contributing to his deveopment of speech. Sometimes the mother wisely imitates his sounds as well as she can, especially after he has imitated some sounds she makes. And when, by and by, he makes some sounds which she suspects are words, her gentle imitation of them can be very effective. It's fine also if the father and other persons with this child do likewise.

Dr. Garry Meyers

FROM THE BABY'S early months, the wise mother sings to him, says nursery rhymes to him and quietly talks to him about what she is doing for him or with him. This mother does not urge him to say these words after her. When he chooses on his own accord to do so, however, she pats or cuddles him and smiles approvingly.

As soon as this child will look at a picture for a few moments, she begins to read to him, and does so more and more as he grows older.

It's when the youngster doesn't seem to try to imitate the sounds or words the mother makes as early as she believes he should, that she may start urging him to talk, not only withdrawing her gentle, smiling, lovely ways, but actually betraying disappointment and anger in her voice and demeanor.

Or if the child has said only a few words, adding no more for some days, communicating with her only in grunts and gestures, she may incline to substitute angry words and ways for loving gentle ones.

SOME PARENTS suppose that if they refuse to do what the child asks them with gestures or grunts, he will be forced to speak. While this might work occasionally, it usually doesn't, but causes the child to grow less likely to speak conventionally.

If your child seems very slow in acquiring speech, it might be well to have his hearing checked. Even if his hearing is not good and needs the attention of a hearing or speech expert, he still needs more of your tender, quiet patience and loving.

Usually the finest thing to do for the child developing speech late or sowly is to read to him. Also his playing freely with other children near his age may help.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Who Says Benny Can't Go Home Again?

That familiar sing-song salutation, "Jell-O Again," will be bouncing off your walls again next fall. That is, it's familiar to you if you were born some time between the Johnstown Flood and Atwater Kent's invention of the horn loudspeaker on top of the radio to replace earphones.

Hal Humphrey

When Jack Benny first called out "Jell-O Again" on his radio show in 1934, it also marked the birth of what now is called the integrated commercial. After eight years of Jello's sponsoring Benny, radio audiences got so used to it that many Benny fans still think he's peddling the shimmying dessert.

-:-

NOW THAT THEY'VE had a free ride for all those intervening years, the Jello people are signing on for cosponsorship of Benny's TV show next fall. Maybe they figured it's time to get a booster shot.

"In the old radio days there were six delicious flavors," Benny recalls. "Now they have 12."

You may have noticed there how automatically Benny slipped in that word "delicious." His brain has been washed, too.

Benny and his writers worked out all kinds of elaborate gags for Jello's middle - of - the - program commercial on radio. When Benny was Jesse James, his brother, Frank (Don Wilson), warned him not to shoot until he counted to six. "Okay, okay — strawberry, raspberry, cherry, orange, lemon and lime," counted Jesse.

ON ANOTHER occasion, Dennis Day was lost in the desert for days without food but was ready to pass up Benny's roadside oasis unless he served Jello.

On his initial TV show for Jello next September, Benny intends to have a kind of homecoming welcome for his ex-sponsor. It probably won't be as big as the writers would like, because executive producer Irving Fein (who is paid to worry) is afraid the insurance company sponsor who picks up half the tab for Benny's show might not appreciate any undue treatment for Jello.

Besides celebrating his 30th year with his own air show (he started in 1932), Benny will have another "first" next season. He is leaving his Sunday night spot for the first time in 12 years of TV.

Benny moves to Tuesday opposite Dick Powell's drama series and "The Untouchables." Those are tough competitors, but at least he starts even with them at the same hour.

"THIS SEASON I've had 'Bonanza' against me. It started a half hour ahead of my show, and who is going to switch over to something else in the middle of the show?

"One Sunday I decided to watch 'Bonanza' myself, and do you know what? I never went back to my show," said Benny, while a CBS man with us at the time almost broke down and wept.

Benny makes it a point not to worry about ratings or critics who each year insist that Benny keeps doing the same old thing. Had he worried or panicked over them, Benny might never have survived as one of the country's top comics and personalities.

-:-

"SHOULD I suddenly become a spendthrift character because some critic says he's tired of me playing a tightwad?" Benny wants to know.

"If I did, the critic might be happy, but my fans wouldn't.

"I've heard critics ask how Bob Hope has lasted so long, when all he does is one-line gags. They miss the point that Hope has a characterization all his own, a kind of Peck's bad boy approach to everything he does. A comedian has to have a characterization to last."

Bob Newhart, Joey Biship, George Gobel and many other of our newer comics might ponder that advice — that is, if they want to be operating as comics 30 years from now.

-:-

WHEN A COMEDIAN has been around as long as Benny, it's always a standard question to ask if he's thinking of retiring.

"I've got two more seasons on my current contract," said Benny. "After that, I'd like to freelance. You know, just do a few specials each season, and maybe a movie. I'll never really retire."

He can't now, because, as Phil Silvers once observed, "Jack isn't a comedian — he's a way of life."

Hearing Held On Red Activity In Cleveland

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities opens hearings today into Communist Party activities in the Cleveland area.

The committee has subpoenaed a number of Cleveland residents as witnesses,but in keeping with a long-standing practice did not reveal the names in advance.

Chairman Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., said the hearings will continue through Thursday.

"The hearings will concern Communist conspiratorial techniques and propaganda, used in implementing Communist Party directives within the United States," Walter announced.

He said the hearings also will delve into "the structure, objectives and activities of the Communist Party in the Cleveland, Ohio, area."

Trainmen Set Merger Fight

CLEVELAND (AP) — Members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (BRT) from 12 states were setting plans today for an all-out fight against the proposed merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads.

W. P. Kennedy, head of the 105,000 - member union who called the meeting here, said Sunday the merger would create "economic mayhem for the eastern half of the nation. It's like stripping a main vein from a healthy person."

The head of the biggest of five operating unions urged an Interstate Commerce Commission probe of what he called "this messy retrenchment plan." He charged the consolidation of the two giant eastern systems was an attempt by financial manipulators to "make money out of misery and decay."

States involved are Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, New York, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Missouri.

ICC approval would produce a system with 20,073 miles of track with more than $5.3 billion in assets. The companies employ about 134,000, most of them represented by unions.

Kennedy says more than 33,000 jobs would be lost in the merger. The BRT reportedly represents 34,000 operating employes, about half the total operating force of the two railroads.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Successful Dieters Picture Selves 'Slim'

"My failure is eating after dinner," is a sentence that runs like a thread through the letters. Last week in trying to help overweights break the habit I suggested diversion . . . being away from home. Thinking through this idea later I felt it wouldn't be a solution for the woman who couldn't get away from home.

Ida Jean Kain

All those who would like to adventure in breaking that habit, pull up a rocker. You write that no matter how hard you try not to go out to the kitchen and raid the refrigerator eventually you break down.

You will recall the overweight who wrote, "Sometimes I go to the refrigerator 20 times and open and close it — but in the end I eat!" The entire evening is spent in exerting will power — it's exhausting!

IT'S A MISTAKE to try to use force on the will power, for our will doesn't work that way. Understand that the will is not wholly conscious and voluntary. The clue is, our will obeys our mental images.

Try working with the will. Adventure in turning your thoughts and your attention to picturing your goal. In short, stop trying so hard not to do something.

When you settle down in the evening to read, or watch TV, first make a conscious effort to relax all your muscles. In this hectic age everyone can benefit by practice in muscle relaxing.

Deliberately tense the various muscle groups — grip the arm of the chair, then let go, let the muscles go limp and loose. Clench your jaw muscles, then let them go loose. Shrug to relax your shoulders. Ge rid of the muscle tensions. Then relax your mind.

Don't try not to think about food; that takes effort. Instead, think about your goal. Picture yourself zipping freely into a dress a size smaller.

Eating after dinner is a habit pattern. To break the habit pattern, change the image in your mind. This "conditioning therapy" is surprisingly hepful. One dieter was able to take off 50 excess pounds "pleasantly", by thinking slim. Every time she was tempted she consciously switched her thoughts and pictured herself choosing a dress size 14, her normal weight size.

SHE PLAYED a mental movie with herself the star, trying on a size 14, and in the triple vision mirror in a fitting room, finding it a perfect fit.

You cannot force the will by bracing your muscles, but you can relax and lead the will by picturing what you want. Sustain your attention on what you want to accomplish and you've got it made.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Who Says Benny Can't Go Home Again?

That familiar sing-song salutation, "Jell-O Again," will be bouncing off your walls again next fall. That is, it's familiar to you if you were born some time between the Johnstown Flood and Atwater Kent's invention of the horn loudspeaker on top of the radio to replace earphones.

Hal Humphrey

When Jack Benny first called out "Jell-O Again" on his radio show in 1934, it also marked the birth of what now is called the integrated commercial. After eight years of Jello's sponsoring Benny, radio audiences got so used to it that many Benny fans still think he's peddling the shimmying dessert.

-:-

NOW THAT THEY'VE had a free ride for all those intervening years, the Jello people are signing on for cosponsorship of Benny's TV show next fall. Maybe they figured it's time to get a booster shot.

"In the old radio days there were six delicious flavors," Benny recalls. "Now they have 12."

You may have noticed there how automatically Benny slipped in that word "delicious." His brain has been washed, too.

Benny and his writers worked out all kinds of elaborate gags for Jello's middle - of - the - program commercial on radio. When Benny was Jesse James, his brother, Frank (Don Wilson), warned him not to shoot until he counted to six. "Okay, okay — strawberry, raspberry, cherry, orange, lemon and lime," counted Jesse.

ON ANOTHER occasion, Dennis Day was lost in the desert for days without food but was ready to pass up Benny's roadside oasis unless he served Jello.

On his initial TV show for Jello next September, Benny intends to have a kind of homecoming welcome for his ex-sponsor. It probably won't be as big as the writers would like, because executive producer Irving Fein (who is paid to worry) is afraid the insurance company sponsor who picks up half the tab for Benny's show might not appreciate any undue treatment for Jello.

Besides celebrating his 30th year with his own air show (he started in 1932), Benny will have another "first" next season. He is leaving his Sunday night spot for the first time in 12 years of TV.

Benny moves to Tuesday opposite Dick Powell's drama series and "The Untouchables." Those are tough competitors, but at least he starts even with them at the same hour.

"THIS SEASON I've had 'Bonanza' against me. It started a half hour ahead of my show, and who is going to switch over to something else in the middle of the show?

"One Sunday I decided to watch 'Bonanza' myself, and do you know what? I never went back to my show," said Benny, while a CBS man with us at the time almost broke down and wept.

Benny makes it a point not to worry about ratings or critics who each year insist that Benny keeps doing the same old thing. Had he worried or panicked over them, Benny might never have survived as one of the country's top comics and personalities.

-:-

"SHOULD I suddenly become a spendthrift character because some critic says he's tired of me playing a tightwad?" Benny wants to know.

"If I did, the critic might be happy, but my fans wouldn't.

"I've heard critics ask how Bob Hope has lasted so long, when all he does is one-line gags. They miss the point that Hope has a characterization all his own, a kind of Peck's bad boy approach to everything he does. A comedian has to have a characterization to last."

Bob Newhart, Joey Biship, George Gobel and many other of our newer comics might ponder that advice — that is, if they want to be operating as comics 30 years from now.

-:-

WHEN A COMEDIAN has been around as long as Benny, it's always a standard question to ask if he's thinking of retiring.

"I've got two more seasons on my current contract," said Benny. "After that, I'd like to freelance. You know, just do a few specials each season, and maybe a movie. I'll never really retire."

He can't now, because, as Phil Silvers once observed, "Jack isn't a comedian — he's a way of life."

Hearing Held On Red Activity In Cleveland

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities opens hearings today into Communist Party activities in the Cleveland area.

The committee has subpoenaed a number of Cleveland residents as witnesses,but in keeping with a long-standing practice did not reveal the names in advance.

Chairman Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., said the hearings will continue through Thursday.

"The hearings will concern Communist conspiratorial techniques and propaganda, used in implementing Communist Party directives within the United States," Walter announced.

He said the hearings also will delve into "the structure, objectives and activities of the Communist Party in the Cleveland, Ohio, area."

Trainmen Set Merger Fight

CLEVELAND (AP) — Members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (BRT) from 12 states were setting plans today for an all-out fight against the proposed merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads.

W. P. Kennedy, head of the 105,000 - member union who called the meeting here, said Sunday the merger would create "economic mayhem for the eastern half of the nation. It's like stripping a main vein from a healthy person."

The head of the biggest of five operating unions urged an Interstate Commerce Commission probe of what he called "this messy retrenchment plan." He charged the consolidation of the two giant eastern systems was an attempt by financial manipulators to "make money out of misery and decay."

States involved are Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, New York, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Missouri.

ICC approval would produce a system with 20,073 miles of track with more than $5.3 billion in assets. The companies employ about 134,000, most of them represented by unions.

Kennedy says more than 33,000 jobs would be lost in the merger. The BRT reportedly represents 34,000 operating employes, about half the total operating force of the two railroads.

Successful Dieters Picture Selves 'Slim'

"My failure is eating after dinner," is a sentence that runs like a thread through the letters. Last week in trying to help overweights break the habit I suggested diversion . . . being away from home. Thinking through this idea later I felt it wouldn't be a solution for the woman who couldn't get away from home.

Ida Jean Kain

All those who would like to adventure in breaking that habit, pull up a rocker. You write that no matter how hard you try not to go out to the kitchen and raid the refrigerator eventually you break down.

You will recall the overweight who wrote, "Sometimes I go to the refrigerator 20 times and open and close it — but in the end I eat!" The entire evening is spent in exerting will power — it's exhausting!

IT'S A MISTAKE to try to use force on the will power, for our will doesn't work that way. Understand that the will is not wholly conscious and voluntary. The clue is, our will obeys our mental images.

Try working with the will. Adventure in turning your thoughts and your attention to picturing your goal. In short, stop trying so hard not to do something.

When you settle down in the evening to read, or watch TV, first make a conscious effort to relax all your muscles. In this hectic age everyone can benefit by practice in muscle relaxing.

Deliberately tense the various muscle groups — grip the arm of the chair, then let go, let the muscles go limp and loose. Clench your jaw muscles, then let them go loose. Shrug to relax your shoulders. Ge rid of the muscle tensions. Then relax your mind.

Don't try not to think about food; that takes effort. Instead, think about your goal. Picture yourself zipping freely into a dress a size smaller.

Eating after dinner is a habit pattern. To break the habit pattern, change the image in your mind. This "conditioning therapy" is surprisingly hepful. One dieter was able to take off 50 excess pounds "pleasantly", by thinking slim. Every time she was tempted she consciously switched her thoughts and pictured herself choosing a dress size 14, her normal weight size.

SHE PLAYED a mental movie with herself the star, trying on a size 14, and in the triple vision mirror in a fitting room, finding it a perfect fit.

You cannot force the will by bracing your muscles, but you can relax and lead the will by picturing what you want. Sustain your attention on what you want to accomplish and you've got it made.

Send a stamped, self - addressed, long envelope for "Take Your Measure" and Perfect Dress Size Chart." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of The Review. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

Can Anybody Hold That Tiger? Detroit Game Out

Giants Gain 2½-Game Lead; Colt 45's 'Hold Up' Bucs

Whips Tribe 8-6; Yanks, Twins Win

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

While the rest of the elite in the American League derby have been all but marking time on a two-week treadmill, Detroit's on-rushing Tigers have been making up ground like a stretch-running colt threading his way throgh a pack of tiring front-runners.

The Tigers gained another length Sunday, outlasting Cleveland 8-6 for the 12th victory in their last 15 starts — a profitable span that has enabled Detroit to pick up four full games and advance from seventh place to fourth, just one game off the pace.

The New York Yankees moved into a first-place tie with the Indians by beating Los Angeles 6-3 on some heavy hitting by Elston Howard. Minnesota further tightened things up with a 7-5 decision over Washington that left the Twins only ½ game behind the co-leaders.

Chicago got by Baltimore's skidding Orioles 2-0 in the day's only other action. The Boston Red Sox and the Athletics were rained out at Kansas City.

Detroit took a 6-0 lead behind Don Mossi but the left-hander needed a lot of help before his fourth straight victory was clinched. The Indians staged a four-run uprising in the eighth inning against Mossi, Ron Kline and Jerry Casale.

The Tigers nicked Pedro Ramos for a run in the first, then routed him with a five-run second. Chico Fernandez led off the inning with a homer. Two walks and Billy Bruton's single loaded the bases. Mossi and the fleet Jake Wood both scored on Charlie Maxwell's 410 - foot sacrifice fly. Norm Cash capped the inning with his 14th homer, off Barry Latman.

Fernandez singled home what stood up as the winner in the fifth, and Wood's single and stolen base, plus another single by Bruton produced another Detroit run in the eighth. Latman and Willie Tasby homered for Cleveland.

Howard belted a pair of two-run homers in teaming with John Blanchard to spark the Yankee offense.

Roland Sheldon faced only 21 batters through the first seven innings, allowing two Los Angeles singles but being helped out by two double plays. The Angels got to the youthful right-hander in the eighth for their three runs in a rally highlighted by doubles by Bob Rodgers and Earl Averill. Reliever Marshall Bridges prevented further damage.

Minnesota cashed in five runs after two were out in the sixth inning for its victory against the Senators. After a double by Bob Allison and a walk, southpaw Jack Kralick singled in the first run, Lennie Green chased in two more with a single, another scored on an error and Vic Power delivered the fifth with his third hit of the day.

Kralick was the winner but failed to finish for the 12th time in 12 starts this year.

Joe Cunningham's checked-swing single and pitcher John Buzhardt's bloop single drove across the White Sox runs as they pinned the Orioles with the 12th setback in their last 17 games. Chuck Estrada, who gave Chicago only four singles in his eight innings, loaded the bases in the first on a hit batsman and two walks before Cunningham looped a hit to left as he checked his swing on a 3-2 count.

Buzhardt, with a five-hitter that made his record 6-4, chased in the other White Sox run in the seventh with his bloop hit after a single and stolen base by Mike Hershberger.

Dental Nine Gains Tie For First Place

The Dental Society moved into a tie for first place in the Colt League by virtue of an 8-4 victory over the Lawyers Sunday.

Trailing 4-0, the Dentists came up with an eight - run seventh inning sparked by Bob Maltrich's grand slam homer and Heddleston's two-run producing triple.

Betz was the winning hurler while Burns was charged with the setback.

SO WHAT AM I going to do? Looking a bit sad, the mighty Casey Stengel, who does what he can to guide the destinies of the New York Mets, gestures futilly on the dugout steps at the Polo Grounds as the Mets dropped their 15th straight, 6-1, to the Giants Sunday. Casey is undoubtedly grateful that the Mets will be seeing a lot of second division clubs in the next few weeks. (UPI Telephoto)

Breaks Traditional Silence

Tebbetts Charges Umpire With 'Bullying' Braves

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Milwaukee Braves broke his traditional silence Sunday and accused National League umpire Stan Landes of "flagrant abuse of authority."

Disturbed by Landes' actions as plate umpire Sunday, Tebbetts issued an unwritten "statement" in his clubhouse office after the Braves' 6-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Without mentioning Landes by name, the Milwaukee field boss, who stepped down as executive vice president to return to managing, charged the veteran umpire with "bullying" the Braves.

Tebbetts was angered by Landes' words when he went to the plate to help out catcher Del Crandall in arguing about a pitch called a ball in the fifth inning.

"As manager of a ball club, it is my duty to protect my players," Tebbetts said. "I've always had a policy of never criticizing an umpire publicly and of always maintaining that umpiring in the National League is superior.

"There's a relationship among managers, players and umpires that is similar to that between citizens and law enforcement officers. . . .

"In all my experience as a catcher (for 16 years) and as a manager I've respected, and been respected by umpires. But this is the first time in my career I have heard an umpire threaten to throw out a star ball player for complaining about a pitch. He told Crandall that if he said one more word, he's gone. When I objected to this, the same ultimatum was delivered to me."

Landes, an umpire in the National League since 1955, said he told Crandall he was "sick and tired of him trying to umpire" the game.

"I told him if he keeps arguing he's going to be run (ejected)," Landes said. "Then Tebbetts came out and told me that he (Crandall) can do all the hollering he wants as long as he doesn't swear. Is Tebbetts writing the rule book?"

Dodgers Stopped Again In Philly

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Feeling tired? All run down? Need a tonic? Call Casey Stengel. The Mets will pick you up.

Both the San Francisco Giants and the Los Angeles Dodgers have been on the Met diet recently. The Giants and Dodgers won 13 of the 15 games that the Mets have lost in a row. Both clubs left the Polo Grounds with new health and wealth.

The five Met dates with the Dodgers and Giants drew a total of 197,393, a brilliant financial coup. But the price was steep. After knocking heads in California and New York with the two front runners, the Mets are embedded in 10th place, with a sorry 12-34 record.

Alvin Dark's Giants completed a four-game sweep Sunday by rallying for five runs in the seventh and a 6-1 victory that left them 2½ games in front of the Dodgers, who stumbled in Philadelphia Saturday night and Sunday after winning 13 in a row. The Phillies came from behind and dumped the Dodgers Sunday 7-5.

Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and St. Louis, running third, fourth and fifth, all lost. The Reds, beaten by Chicago, 6-3, now trail by 6½. Pittsburgh, winner of seven in a row, bowed twice to Houston 10-6 and 10-3 and dropped eight games back. St. Louis lost its eighth straight, losing to Milwaukee 6-4, and fell 12 games behind the leaders.

The Mets gave the Giants a good wrestle for six innings. Bob Miller, a non-winner, had struck out eight and allowed only Willie Mays' 19th homer in the run column until San Francisco broke through in the seventh. Miller walked winning pitcher Juan Marichal with the bases loaded, forcing in the tie-breaking run.

The Phillies, who shut out the Dodgers Saturday night behind rookie Dennis Bennett, shocked Los Angeles again Sunday after trailing 0-4. Johnny Callison came through with four straight hits and three runs batted in. Chris Short was the winner although Paul Brown finished up with five scoreless innings. Johnny Podres, knocked out in the five-run fourth was the loser. Tony Gonzalez homered for the Phils.

Billy Williams, the hot shot in the batting race with a .359 average, and George Altman powered the Cubs' victory over the Reds, ending a five-game Chicago losing string. Williams hit his 11th homer and Altman his 12th as rookie Cal Koonce beat Moe Drabowsky.

Milwaukee hopped on Bob Gibson for five runs in the first inning and moved to within 1½ games of the Cardinals with the help of fine relief work by Hank Fischer, who rescued Bob Hendley in the eighth.

Houston clubbed Pittsburgh pitching for a total of 31 hits, 17 in the first game and 14 in the second, to nail down victories for relief man Bob Tiefenauer and Ken Johnson, who went the route. It was the first double defeat for the Pirates this year.

Tag Day Nets $872 For EL Little League

A total of $872.95 was collected in a Tag Day project Saturday by the East Liverpool Little League. Lawrence Zollinger, league treasurer and chairman of the fund-raising project, reported Little League players collected $707.35 in the downtown area, while Little Minor League squad members received $165.60 in contributions from residents of the outlying areas. The Chester Legion squad was high in collecting contributions with $185.18, Zollinger reported.

Dental Nine Gains Tie For First Place

The Dental Society moved into a tie for first place in the Colt League by virtue of an 8-4 victory over the Lawyers Sunday.

Trailing 4-0, the Dentists came up with an eight - run seventh inning sparked by Bob Maltrich's grand slam homer and Heddleston's two-run producing triple.

Betz was the winning hurler while Burns was charged with the setback.

SO WHAT AM I going to do? Looking a bit sad, the mighty Casey Stengel, who does what he can to guide the destinies of the New York Mets, gestures futilly on the dugout steps at the Polo Grounds as the Mets dropped their 15th straight, 6-1, to the Giants Sunday. Casey is undoubtedly grateful that the Mets will be seeing a lot of second division clubs in the next few weeks. (UPI Telephoto)

Breaks Traditional Silence

Tebbetts Charges Umpire With 'Bullying' Braves

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Milwaukee Braves broke his traditional silence Sunday and accused National League umpire Stan Landes of "flagrant abuse of authority."

Disturbed by Landes' actions as plate umpire Sunday, Tebbetts issued an unwritten "statement" in his clubhouse office after the Braves' 6-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Without mentioning Landes by name, the Milwaukee field boss, who stepped down as executive vice president to return to managing, charged the veteran umpire with "bullying" the Braves.

Tebbetts was angered by Landes' words when he went to the plate to help out catcher Del Crandall in arguing about a pitch called a ball in the fifth inning.

"As manager of a ball club, it is my duty to protect my players," Tebbetts said. "I've always had a policy of never criticizing an umpire publicly and of always maintaining that umpiring in the National League is superior.

"There's a relationship among managers, players and umpires that is similar to that between citizens and law enforcement officers. . . .

"In all my experience as a catcher (for 16 years) and as a manager I've respected, and been respected by umpires. But this is the first time in my career I have heard an umpire threaten to throw out a star ball player for complaining about a pitch. He told Crandall that if he said one more word, he's gone. When I objected to this, the same ultimatum was delivered to me."

Landes, an umpire in the National League since 1955, said he told Crandall he was "sick and tired of him trying to umpire" the game.

"I told him if he keeps arguing he's going to be run (ejected)," Landes said. "Then Tebbetts came out and told me that he (Crandall) can do all the hollering he wants as long as he doesn't swear. Is Tebbetts writing the rule book?"

Dodgers Stopped Again In Philly

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Feeling tired? All run down? Need a tonic? Call Casey Stengel. The Mets will pick you up.

Both the San Francisco Giants and the Los Angeles Dodgers have been on the Met diet recently. The Giants and Dodgers won 13 of the 15 games that the Mets have lost in a row. Both clubs left the Polo Grounds with new health and wealth.

The five Met dates with the Dodgers and Giants drew a total of 197,393, a brilliant financial coup. But the price was steep. After knocking heads in California and New York with the two front runners, the Mets are embedded in 10th place, with a sorry 12-34 record.

Alvin Dark's Giants completed a four-game sweep Sunday by rallying for five runs in the seventh and a 6-1 victory that left them 2½ games in front of the Dodgers, who stumbled in Philadelphia Saturday night and Sunday after winning 13 in a row. The Phillies came from behind and dumped the Dodgers Sunday 7-5.

Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and St. Louis, running third, fourth and fifth, all lost. The Reds, beaten by Chicago, 6-3, now trail by 6½. Pittsburgh, winner of seven in a row, bowed twice to Houston 10-6 and 10-3 and dropped eight games back. St. Louis lost its eighth straight, losing to Milwaukee 6-4, and fell 12 games behind the leaders.

The Mets gave the Giants a good wrestle for six innings. Bob Miller, a non-winner, had struck out eight and allowed only Willie Mays' 19th homer in the run column until San Francisco broke through in the seventh. Miller walked winning pitcher Juan Marichal with the bases loaded, forcing in the tie-breaking run.

The Phillies, who shut out the Dodgers Saturday night behind rookie Dennis Bennett, shocked Los Angeles again Sunday after trailing 0-4. Johnny Callison came through with four straight hits and three runs batted in. Chris Short was the winner although Paul Brown finished up with five scoreless innings. Johnny Podres, knocked out in the five-run fourth was the loser. Tony Gonzalez homered for the Phils.

Billy Williams, the hot shot in the batting race with a .359 average, and George Altman powered the Cubs' victory over the Reds, ending a five-game Chicago losing string. Williams hit his 11th homer and Altman his 12th as rookie Cal Koonce beat Moe Drabowsky.

Milwaukee hopped on Bob Gibson for five runs in the first inning and moved to within 1½ games of the Cardinals with the help of fine relief work by Hank Fischer, who rescued Bob Hendley in the eighth.

Houston clubbed Pittsburgh pitching for a total of 31 hits, 17 in the first game and 14 in the second, to nail down victories for relief man Bob Tiefenauer and Ken Johnson, who went the route. It was the first double defeat for the Pirates this year.

Tag Day Nets $872 For EL Little League

The Chester Legion squad was high in collecting contributions with $185.18, Zollinger reported.

EL (Baseball) Merchants In 24-3 Rout Of Lisbon

The East Liverpool Merchants piled up a score that looks like it came from a football game instead of a baseball contest when they routed the Lisbon Merchants 24-3 Sunday at Lisbon in the County-City League.

While his teammates were giving two Lisbon hurlers a good pounding, righthander Bob Campbell allowed only two hits and fanned 11 as he went the nine-nimning distance.

Manager John Andrason's team packed 22 hits into the attack but only three were for extra bases. Bob Hobbs led the way with four hits in five trips while Fredrick, Shanks and Murawski all had three each.

In other league contests, Negley nipped East Palestine Golden Dawn 1-0 on a three hitter by Felger.

East Liverpool travels to Negley Wednesday and Columbiana goes to East Palestine.

DeWitt Hands Control Of Club To Foundation

CINCINNATI (AP)—Owner Bill DeWitt has handed control of the Cincinnati Reds board of trustees back to the Crosley Foundation—temporarily — and has agreed to keep the team in Cincinnati at least five years.

The move Sunday complicated an already-muddled sale of the National League champion team to DeWitt last March 23 for $4,625,000.

The next move was up to Ohio's attorney general, Mark McElroy, who said last month he had elected to probe sale of the club under his powers to supervise charitable foundations like the Crosley group.

DeWitt reported Sunday he had written Mrs. Stanley Kess, who heads the foundation, giving his pledged to keep the team in Cincinnati for at least five years.

McElroy said he wanted to investigate the sale after he received reports that a group headed by Joseph F. Rippe Jr., Cincinnati real estate dealer, had offered $5.5 million for the club.

At the time of the sale, Atty. Thomas C. Haydock, foundation spokesman and trustee, said he had seen no offer higher than DeWitt's.

Rippe said he was baffled at that remark because his group had twice offered $5.5 million for the club in writing—on Dec. 26 and again the day before the sale was announced last March.

Hebert Takes Memphis Golf Crown In Playoff

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Lionel Hebert had victory in his clutches, fumbled, then retrieved it deftly in the first sudden death playoff hole of the $40,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament.

The Lafayette, La., native rammed in a 30-foot putt on the 19th hole Sunday to grab top money of $6,400 from South Africa's Gary Player and National Open Champion Gene Littler in the three-way playoff.

It was a game recovery from bitter disappointment on the last of the regulation holes where Hebert was putting for an eagle and needed a birdie to win. His first putt rolled almost the width of the green and stopped three feet from the cup. The second stroke rolled inches past the mark, giving him a 67. Par for the course is 70.

Player rapped the 18th for a 68 after recovering from a trap. Littler chipped close and dropped a putt to birdie the same hole for a 66 and a spot in the playoff.

On the decisive 19th all three men hit the green in two. To show he still could putt, Hebert whacked a hard one that rolled true to the cup for a birdie. Player ran his putt past the cup and Littler putted his to the rim where it refused to drop in.

Hebert, Littler and Player finished the regulation 72 holes at 267. Littler and Player each won $3,050.

Lionel Hebert's brother, Jay, and Bruce Crampton of Australia finished a stroke behind the leaders and won $2,050.

It was the first tournament victory for Lionel since 1960.

EL (Baseball) Merchants In 24-3 Rout Of Lisbon

The East Liverpool Merchants piled up a score that looks like it came from a football game instead of a baseball contest when they routed the Lisbon Merchants 24-3 Sunday at Lisbon in the County-City League.

While his teammates were giving two Lisbon hurlers a good pounding, righthander Bob Campbell allowed only two hits and fanned 11 as he went the nine-ninning distance.

Manager John Andrason's team packed 22 hits into the attack but only three were for extra bases. Bob Hobbs led the way with four hits in five trips while Fredrick, Shanks and Murawski all had three each.

In other league contests, Negley nipped East Palestine Golden Dawn 1-0 on a three hitter by Felger.

East Liverpool travels to Negley Wednesday and Columbiana goes to East Palestine.

Mr. Investor

here are some of the reasons:

NORGE drycleaning cannot be compared with any other coin-operated drycleaning method. The greater effectiveness of Norge drycleaning has been proven by research and by a majority of all coin-operated drycleaner users.
NORGE alone has the "Village" concept to make sure every Norge-equipped installation offers complete laundry and cleaning service. And Norge provides guidance on location, store layout, financing, insurance and promotion.
NORGE alone offers major consumer advertising support for Norge Laundry and Cleaning Village stores. No other manufacturer backs its operators with two network TV shows, "TODAY" and "JACK PAAR", plus big-space advertising in magazines like, LIFE, LOOK, McCALLS and other leading magazines, plus the local impact of bigspace newspaper ads!

We have choice locations available in this area.

Junior Editors Quiz on SWANS

QUESTION: Why do we eat ducks, geese and chickens but not swans?

ANSWER: If your mother has never served up roast swan on the family dinner table it will not be because a swan is not good to eat. In olden times, especially, swans were prized as food, and in many a royal banquet the main dish was an enormous swan, often served up with snow white feathers put back over the roasted bird. Even now, in the far north, where wild swans nest, they are hunted by natives. We have two species of wild swan in America: the Whistling and Trumpeter Swans. They are so large and conspicuous that they are easily shot by hunters, not only for food but because their of beautiful plumage. The few who are left remain because they are protected by law, because they breed in places hard to reach and because, when migrating, they fly at a great height. The imported Mute Swan which you see in our parks is so highly prized for its grace and beauty that no one thinks of using it for food.

FOR YOU TO DO: Here is a picture which will test your skill as a water-colorist. Leave the swans and their reflections in the water pure white but color the park pond a light blue becoming lighter as it is further away. These should be deep green and the upper picture done in very light delicate colors suggesting the upper air.
